Reds Enter Reich From Lithuania

Three New Offensives Aimed at East Prussia Are Reported Forming

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Russian troops in one of the fiercest struggles of the war yesterday drove to within two and one-half miles of Lomza, gateway to lower German East Prussia, and Moscow announced officially early today that Red army patrols had crossed from Lithuania into that Nazi province.

Berlin also announced that the Russians had penetrated German lines in a "concentrated assault" on Warsaw's eastern suburbs, 75 miles southwest of the Narew river stronghold of Lomza, and said that in southern Poland other Soviet troops in a fresh offensive aimed at northern Hungary had captured the fortress town of Krosno.

TANKS, BARRAGES, PLANES

The Soviet midnight communique telling of the entry into East Prussia came a few hours after Allied headquarters had announced that American troops now were fighting inside western Germany. It coincided with reports from both Berlin and Moscow that three powerful Red armies were on the verge of unleashing new offensives on a 300-mile front opposite East Prussia, extending from northern Poland up to the Baltic Sea.

In the flaming sector northeast of Warsaw the Russians were throwing in masses of men backed by swarms of tanks and covered by terrific artillery barrages and plane bombardments, Berlin said. One German front reporter was quoted as saying the drive was launched "with such hellish artillery fire that it was a relief when Soviet infantry and tanks at last attacked."

Lomza, 20 miles south of Germany's East Prussian border, appeared about to fall to the Russians, whom Moscow said captured 30 localities on three sides of the bastion.

In central Romania the Second Ukraine Army under Marshal Malinovsky captured 200 localities during the day, the Moscow communique said. These included Sighisoara, 25 miles southeast of the Hungarian stronghold of Targu-Mures and Medias, 18 miles to the west.

The Russians, in their steady drive to knock Hungary out of the war, have now conquered nearly 1,500 square miles of Transylvanian soil taken by Germany from Romania in 1940 and given to Hungary. Romanian troops are aiding the Red army in recovering this territory.

REDS NEARING SOFIA

The most significant development in Romania during the day was the seizure of Petrosani by Russian columns which climbed from the Danube valley through the 8,000-ft. Transylvanian Alps by way of Vulcan pass to capture it.

Moscow said that Gen. Zakharov's Second White Russian army had captured 30 localities in the drive on Lomza, only 20 miles from the East Prussian frontier and 75 miles northwest of Warsaw.

The Russians were hurling a great weight of reserves into the

PATCH JOINS 3D TO SOLIDIFY FRONT

SHAEF, Tuesday, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The rampaging First U. S. Army burst into Hitler's inner fortress of Germany yesterday and plowed ahead for five miles into the Reich, meeting the enemy on his home soil north of the frontier town of Trier—55 miles from the Rhine and the great industrial city of Koblenz.

An artillery barrage first chewed up the German positions and then in "reasonable strength"—that was the official language—the doughboys crossed over to strike the blow for which the United Nations long had waited.

The Americans probably were penetrating well into the Siegfried line defense system at this point.

The exact location of the Siegfried line, also known as the west wall, never has been disclosed officially.

It was a black day for German arms, for the Third U. S. Army seized a great part of the old French Maginot line intact, and was breaking the last German line of defense on French soil—the Moselle river positions.

The British Second Army broke across the frontier of Holland and was bound for the weakest link in the 400 miles of the west wall—the thin line of pillboxes, tank taps and forts stretching south from the German city of Kleve across the shortest route to Berlin.

Other elements of the First Army already were fighting through the minefields of the Siegfried line south of the key city of Aachen, little more than eight miles from Germany's frontier, and were blasting fortifications inside the Reich with heavy artillery. Aachen was under fire, the Paris radio said.

FIRST ENTRY IN FORCE

Not since the days of Napoleon has Germany been entered in strength and the doughboys who accomplished this modern feat had fought clear across the little duchy of Luxembourg in one day, freeing its capital of the same name en route.

Since this was no mere patrol entry into Germany, such as the tentative thrusts of the French in 1939 and the American raid of last week, it may well be the opening wedge in a series of full-scale attacks against Hitler's last prepared line of defense.

The doughboys were overlooking the valley of the Moselle river where it flows northeast to the Rhine at Koblenz.

The Third Army, driving over Lorraine's hills, captured with guns intact the fortress of Aumetz, the first city incorporated into the Reich by Hitler's decree to be liberated. Aumetz is 22 miles northwest of Metz.

"FIRST" CONSOLIDATED

There was heavy fighting ten miles east of Liege and south of Aachen, where the First Army consolidated its assault positions by occupying the town of Herve, northwest of Limbourg where the Americans are shelling positions in Germany which protect Aachen.

The fate of the last German stand in northern France was being decided by a blazing battle six miles south of Nancy, where the Third Army captured the ancient Fort Pont St. Vincent and then hammered across the Moselle river on a front of several miles.

The pressure was on, waves of bombers were blowing up stubborn enemy positions, and in the words of the officer directing the attack, somewhere shortly the Germans must give way.

The First Army also was engaged in heavy fighting just west of the Luxembourg border at Bastogne and Arlon, and the Germans were resisting stoutly 10 miles north of the city of Luxembourg.

LE HAVRE DOMINATED

There was more good news on the channel coast, where the British forces stormed Fontaine-le-Mallet, one and a half miles north

French Seize Dijon; Allies Near Belfort

Only 15 Miles From Strategic Corridor To Beleagured Reich

ROME, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The net was drawn still tighter about German remnants trying to escape from southern France today as Allied troops smashed within 15 miles of the strategic Belfort Gap corridor to Germany and captured Dijon, important communications center.

French troops seized Dijon after a fierce 24-hour battle in the city's outskirts, sealing off a great network of roads that had been serving the Nazi retreat.

At the same time American doughboys slashed across the Doubs valley to the outskirts of Vescul, not only aiming a new threat at the enemy garrison in Belfort Gap but blocking a main road running from Dijon to Belfort.

At Dijon, a city of 96,000, the hard-fighting French Poilus were but 55 miles from Chaumont, historic site of Gen. Pershing's headquarters in the first World War, near which troops of Lt. Gen. Patton's American Third Army have been reported operating.

On the eastern end of the Seventh Army's 125-mile front the Americans and French closed in steadily on Belfort Gap.

Pushing along the Swiss frontier, French troops advanced yard by yard in bitter fighting in the vicinity of Blamont. American forces driving up the Ognon river from the vicinity of Besancon reached Rougemont, 25 miles west and slightly south of Belfort.

As Nazi resistance increased steadily with each succeeding mile of the Allied advance, it became apparent that the enemy would make a supreme stand in the ancient Belfort gateway between the Vosges mountains and the Swiss border in an effort to keep Lt. Gen. Patch's forces from streaming on across the German frontier.

An Associated Press dispatch from the French-Swiss frontier said the Nazis moved SS Elite Guard reinforcements into the Belfort fortifications on Sunday under steady pounding by American planes.

French troops reached Saulieu, 40 miles west of Dijon.

Allied warships continued to pound German positions on the French Riviera near the Italian frontier.

French Cabinet Meets

Greater Coal Shortage Foreseen for South

The possibility of a shortage of coal surpassing anything experienced last winter by home owners who shivered in a search for adequate fuel supplies was pictured here by C. A. Reed, of the National Coal Association, before nearly 150 members of the Southern Coal Association.

Reed, who addressed the opening session of the coal men's two-day conference at the Henry Grady hotel, gave a formal review of "Coal as a Fuel—It's Progress."

Then he launched an unscheduled speech in which he predicted that the government's plan to revitalize Europe's war-demolished coal industry will so deplete our fuel-producing equipment that Americans will be huddled in subnormally heated homes for the next two years.

Earlier in the meeting it was pointed out that dealers and retailers, including those in the south, already have been rationed this year to 90 per cent of their 1943 coal quotas.

"That is the situation which exists before any of our coal or coal-producing equipment goes abroad," Reed declared. The country must furnish its fighting men with all their fuel supplies, he pointed out, and the government currently is contemplating sending most of our new fuel-producing equipment to recondition Europe's coal industry.

"That leaves the home front picture pretty black," Reed contended. "I trust that the War Production Board and the Solid Fuel Administration for War will judge it wise to 'keep the home fires burning' before it attempts to light those abroad," he said.

James L. Newbold, of Washington, D. C., vice president of the American Retail Coal Association, told the coal men to urge their customers to order coal supplies early. Even with victory thought to be in the offing, he added, this winter will be a tough one from many angles, especially transportation by truck.

Charles M. Farrar, of Atlanta, is vice president of the association. Today's session of the conference will feature election of officers and directors at 10:30 a. m. and at 12:30 p. m. a finale.

Dewey Hits Roosevelt War Policies

Administration Accused Of Failure To Prepare Country for Conflict

DES MOINES, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey lashed out at what he called the Roosevelt administration's "incompetent" preperations for war and peace today in the most caustic campaign attack he has made thus far on his fourth term-seeking opponent.

The Republican presidential nominee, arriving in the corn belt for a series of conferences with farm and political leaders, declared the present administration has failed to show itself able to cope with agricultural and industrial reconversion problems.

He also accused the New Deal of having done "absolutely nothing" to prepare this country for war.

Commenting at a news conference on Wendell L. Willkie's view, set forth in a current magazine article, that this country must yield some of its sovereignty to achieve collective world security, Dewey characterized the argument as a "shibboleth."

"Every time you sign a treaty with a nation," Dewey said, "you give up a little something, as they give up a little something. Both parties are agreed that we shall respect in the international peace organization the sovereignty of all 60 nations of the world that that sovereignty shall be respected and preserved."

Turning to agriculture problems, the New York Governor said there is no doubt that there will be a "very large" accumulation of food stocks when peace comes, adding:

"It will require an enormous degree of skill and competence to spread out the food in such a way that it will not glut the American market and give the farmer a bad year."

Dewey disclosed that he had prepared a speech on farm problems, but would not deliver it on the current trip, which takes him to the Pacific coast for four more major addresses there and one in Oklahoma City.

Declaring it is "absolutely imperative" that a good job be done for the farmers, he said "that's another reason why I am so profoundly convinced we need a change of government."

The nominee described the reconversion plan submitted to the President Saturday by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes as "seven and a half months late."

"It was in Pittsburgh six weeks ago," he said, "that I pointed out the administration was six months late."

Philippine Carrier Raid Bags 52 Ships, 68 Planes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

In a shattering sea-based action against the Philippines, first of the war by the Allies, a U. S. carrier task force destroyed an entire enemy convoy of 52 vessels, blasted five airfields and wiped out 68 Japanese planes in widespread raids against Mindanao last Friday.

The blazing action marked an advance of approximately 500 miles beyond the westernmost previously reported positions of carrier-based aircraft, and was coupled with new heavy attacks on Paramushiro and the Volcano Islands far to the north.

The overall total of ships sunk, probably sunk, damaged and set afire as announced in the Navy's communique was 90. Many were small cargo ships and sampans.

SUBS CLAIM 6 MORE

The Navy said the United States aircraft losses were light, and there was no damage to surface ships.

United States submarines have trimmed nine more ships, three of them fighting craft, from Japan's dwindling tonnage, the Navy announced yesterday.

The new tally brings the total of all types of Japanese ships sunk by U. S. submarines to 732, of which 61 are fighting ships and 671 cargo carriers and miscellaneous craft.

A Japanese attempt to raid American-held Biak Island, off Dutch New Guinea, was frustrated Saturday when Black Widow night fighters shot down two of 10 assaulting planes, headquarters announced today.

American Liberators blasted Japanese airdromes on Celebes Saturday, again encountering no aerial opposition.

The previous day, American planes dropped a 180-ton load of explosives on Celebes, the heaviest unloaded on that major Nipponese base.

JAPS GAIN IN CHINA

Japanese forces pushing down the Hunan-Kwangsi railroad apparently have crossed the border into Kwangsi province and reached Chuanhsien, 67 miles from Kweilin, center of the South China defense systems, a report from Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell indicated last night.

Indicating that the Japanese

Women of 'Evenintide' Placed on Pension Rolls

The State Department of Public Welfare has placed residents of Evenintide, Atlanta home for aged women, on the old age pension rolls, in a move to help provide "boarding homes" for the aged throughout Georgia.

Giving the women a sense of independence, Director A. J. Hartley of the state welfare department announced yesterday his department will issue monthly checks to the residents sufficient to cover their board bills, and possibly have a little change left over. Evenintide is located at 891 West End avenue, S. W.

Since its establishment in 1905 Evenintide has been supported by contributions from Fulton county, the city of Atlanta, the Community Chest and private individuals. Donations from the Community Chest recently ceased.

BYLAWS CHANGED

In seeking recognition by the state department, the home changed its bylaws so that the women no longer would have to turn over their estates to the organization. It also made it possible for them to leave the home at any time they desired.

The "boarding home" will be operated for dependent women who have reached their 65th birthday. The home now has 81 occupants. Each one placed on state pension rolls will receive a monthly check of approximately $25, Hartley said. The state checks will total nearly $25,000 annually, which is greater than the combined amounts paid by all other contributors.

With the state taking over the board bills of the 81 inhabitants, Hartley said the home probably would be able to use the other contributions in improving the building.

Evenintide is the second such private home to be recognized by the state, the director asserted. A home for aged men, Bethany at Vidalia, recently was designated as a boarding home.

NEED FOR MORE HOMES

There is need for homes for elderly persons, the welfare leader stated.

"I am of the opinion that our recognition of this splendid private institution of Evenintide will encourage and help to provide other similar boarding homes throughout the state, for which there is a very great need," Hartley said.

Evenintide is a non-profitseeking, charitable institution, operated by a group of prominent Atlanta women who serve without pay. Mrs. Sam E. Finley is president of the home. Mrs. Eugene Black is vice president; Mrs. R. I. Reed is recording secretary, and Mrs. R. V. Haslett is secretary-treasurer. Members of the board include: Mrs. Ralph Black, Mrs. Charles Dunn, Mrs. John Funke, Mrs. Robert Cunninghani, Mrs. Maude Lyddleton, Mrs. Howard Canfield and Mrs. Harry Craft.

MASTER'S VOICE ENDS DOG CASE

GREENVILLE, S. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—"Beulah" decided a case for her master, the court and herself.

Two men claiming ownership of the dog were instructed to stand in opposite corners and call her.

The defendant called "Queenie! Queenie!" She moved hesitatingly toward him.

Then the plaintiff called "Beulah!" she scampered joyfully to him—and the case was over.

MATTOON FOLK TOO JITTERY

Mass Hysteria Forces Police To Disarm Gas-Vigilantes

MATTOON, Ill., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Mattoon's nocturnal, gas-spraying prowler remained as elusive and as versatile as the late John Dillinger tonight, as nervous residents watched for him beneath their bedroom windows.

At least 33 apparently legitimate reports of attacks have been received in the last 12 days and a dozen or so more—including two over the weekend—have been sifted and dubbed "nerves" by police and physicians.

The prowler, described by those who claim they saw him as "tall and thin, with a black skull cap," sprays some sort of gas or anesthetic through bedroom windows or under doors. The motive is obscure. Many victims have been nauseated, some suffered mouth burns, and several have been hospitalized.

Thomas V. Wright, police commissioner, and Chief C. E. Cole, taking note of mounting hysteria, issued orders today for all groups of amateur "vigilantes" to disband. These have been touring the streets at night, armed with shotguns, and the officers said they feared an innocent person might be shot.

"I wouldn't walk through anybody's back yard at night now for $10,000," Wright said.

Harry Yde, state police chief, sent five squadcars of his officers to assist city police in the hunt and also, said Wright, "to help in quelling the frenzy of the populace."

Sheriff J. E. Hougland said he had at his call 50 farmers who are members of the Anti-Thief Association (formerly the Anti-Horse Thief Association) to aid if requested.

State's Attorney W. K. Kidwell was checking state mental hospitals for any released patient who had apparent characteristics of the prowler.

Most of the prowler's visits have occurred in the better residential section in the northwest part of Mattoon.

Miss Frances Smith, a school principal and one of the victims, said the gas "has the kind of an odor and gives you the kind of a sensation you get when you walk into a funeral parlor."

She said her home was visited three times.

Cool, Rainy Weather To Continue Today

The tropical disturbance which originated in the Gulf of Mexico will continue to bring cool, rainy weather to the Atlanta area, according to the weather bureau at the municipal airport.

The official forecast reads: "Cloudy, with occasional light rains, and continued cool." The weather bureau expects this situation to prevail for the next 30 or 36 hours.

The high temperature yesterday was 65 degrees from noon until 8:30 p. m., and the low was 60 at 6 a. m.

Hitler Orders More to Gallows For Part in Plot on His Life

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, who recently hanged one of his field marshals, has ordered his No. 2 Jew-baiter, his former ambassador to Mussolini's Rome, and five other Germans to the gallows for the same offense—participation in the July 20 plot to kill him.

The new penalties were disclosed as the Germans stepped up total mobilization to defend the homeland.

Berlin radio announced that the seven men had been convicted by a people's court, and named them as:

Dapper Count Wolf Hendrick von Helldorf, who ranked second only to Julius Streicher as a Jew-baiter during the heyday of Jewish persecution; Ulrich von Hassell, once Nazi ambassador to Rome; Dr. Karl F. Goerdeler, former mayor of Leipzig and former German minister of economics; Trott Zu Solz, onetime secretary in the ministry of foreign affairs Paul Lejeune-Jung, former deputy; Wilhelm Leuschner, former Hessian minister of the interior, and Josef Wirmer, an attorney.

Goerdeller, the Nazis charged, was slated to become chancellor in the government that would have succeeded Hitler, and would have "surrendered Germany to her enemies." He "formed the bridge between the militarist traitors and political conspirators."

Count Von Helldorf was represented as a liaison man between Goerdeler's political group and the military faction. Field Marshal Erwin von Witzleben and seven other army officers were executed a month ago.

Meanwhile, Swiss border reports told of unrest and confusion in southwestern Germany as the population in that heavily-bombed area behind the battlefront was mobilized for digging trenches. A broadcast to German troops, however, declared that civilians including old men, women and children were enthusiastically and heroically "digging ramparts."

The German press said that even ballet dancers from closed theaters were working in factories, and that actors were shouldering spades alongside elderly businessmen.

Younger and still younger boys were being trained for sniping and guerrilla warfare, and Reichsminister Goebbels injected a picturesque touch of streamlining to this mobilization, ordering military haircuts for all boys under 18.

One German broadcast told of "newly-assembled divisions" featuring tank-busting platoons consisting entirely of volunteers of 17 to 19 trained in "close combat" suicidal antitank tactics.

Americans Encounter Main Gothic Defenses

ROME, Sept. 11.—(AP)—American trops, advancing swiftly north and northwest of Florence while the Germans were engaged in bloody, inconclusive fighting with the British Eighth army near Rimini on the Adriatic, have come squarely against the enemy's main Gothic line defenses, Allied headquarters announced tonight.

One Yank spearhead, stabbing almost due north from Florence, reached Usella, within 35 miles of the industrial metropolis of Bologna in the Po valley. Others of Lt. Gen. Clark's forces farther west cleared out the city of Prato and Pistoia and seized important high ground northeast of Pistoia.

Elements of the American 92d Division broke into the village of Sezzera, six and a half miles above Lucca. Near the Mediterranean coast the Serchio river was crossed at several additional points and Vecchiano, five miles north of Pisa, was occupied.

An Allied Communique said that "north of Lucca American patrols already are in contact with forward positions of this (the Gothic) line."

The German high command, recording the general American advance, said that "detcahing movements to the Apennine line were concluded according to plan and without enemy pressure. On the eastern wing our troops again westerday frustrated all enemy attempts to break through."

Fighting near the Adriatic was officially described as still "heavy and bitter, with casualties on both sides heavy." The British drove the enemy from one 600-foot peak south of Gehmano, a few miles inland from the coast, and Indian troops captured a hill 1,000 yards above Piano di Castello.

Immediately before Rimini the Allied assault had been brought to a standstill by fierce Nazi resistance, but repeated counterattacks by enemy tanks and infantry had not succeeded in dislodging the British from any positions won in the past two weeks.

At the closest point British and Polish troops were dug in approximately four miles from Rimini, heavily fortified eastern anchor of the Gothic line. There was no indication today that an Allied break-through was imminent.

Improved weather enabled Allied fighters and medium bombers to make widespread attacks on Nazi strongpoints and communications yesterday.

175 Nazi Planes Fall To Air Trap Over Reich

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 12.—(AP)—U. S. Eighth Air Force fighters and heavy bombers trapped and beat the German air force yesterday, destroying 175 Nazi planes in one of the fiercest air battles ever fought over Europe.

It was the heaviest Luftwaffe loss in more than a year and one which dug deeply into the air reserves which the enemy has been carefully holding back until now for the final battle of Germany.

Of the Germans destroyed, American fighters shot down 116, the greatest number ever shot down by fighters alone in a single day, while the heavy bombers knocked down another 17, and 42 were destroyed on their airdromes.

Indicating the extent of the opposition, 48 of the American heavy bombers and 29 fighters failed to return. The bomber losses were the heaviest since April 29 when 63 failed to come home from a raid on Berlin.

Early today the German radio said "enemy" planes were again over vast sections of the Reich, indicating that the non-stop Allied air offensive was continuing in its fifth day.

Tired returning fliers described yesterday's German aerial opposition as probably the heaviest offered in years.

En route to their targets at Merseburg, Litzkendorf and Misburg they saw few German planes. But just before they reached central Germany the enemy sprang up, often in formations of 150 or more, and bore in stubbornly over the targets and far along the route home.

More than a half-dozen of the new jet-propelled Messerschmitts were included, but the greatest opposition was from conventional Focke-Wulfs and Messerschmitt 109's.

Intelligence officers, anticipating that the Luftwaffe would come out from its four-month hiding, sent with the bombers the heaviest fighter escort of any time since July. There were more than 800 Lightnings, Thunderbolts and Mustangs on hand for the greatest air battle ever fought over the Reich between American fighters and the German air force.

For more than two hours fierce combats raged with enemy planes—putting up their first serious opposition since July 7—striving furiously to break through the heavy fighter screen about the heavy bombers.

Southern Bell To Honor Greene

Peyton W. Greene, of 18 Highland drive, N. E., will be honored at a luncheon today for his 40 years of outstanding service for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Peyton W. Greene

Greene, who is secretary and assistant treasurer of the company, will receive a gold pin containing eight gold stars, one for each five-year period of service, from President Hal S. Dumas at the luncheon.

Starting his career here on September 7, 1904, he went to Augusta as cashier in 1905 and was transferred to Jacksonville in the same capacity in 1906. He returned to Atlanta in 1909, becoming assistant treasurer in 1925 and assistant secretary a year later. He was promoted to his present position in 1937.

CORRESPONDENCE FRIENDS MEET—After writing to each other for three years Marilyn McNaughton, 13, of Atlanta, and Roddy McDowall, popular young English actor, met yesterday for lunch. Here Roddy shows Marilyn a picture of his best friend, Farley Granger.

Carmen Strives To Quit Bed; Roddy Meets Atlanta Pen Pal

By MARY KEY WYNNE.

Suffering with a bad case of laryngitis, Carmen Miranda has remained in bed since her arrival in Atlanta Sunday.

The Brazilian songstress and comedienne will attempt to recover from her illness in time to appear in the shows scheduled today at Lawson General and the Veterans' hospital. She remained in her hotel room all yesterday and last night, and her song rehearsals with the orchestra for the afternoon were canceled. Attending her are Dr. T. T. Blalock, of the Veterans' hospital, and Dr. William Warren, throat specialist.

Carmen has been on the road for two weeks and prior to that she had just recovered from an operation. It is believed that she will return to the coast after her Atlanta visit, as she will be unable to continue with the tour.

Roddy McDowall yesterday personally met a young Georgian with whom he had been corresponding for several years. The British actor had lunch with Miss Marilyn McNaughton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lee McNaughton, of 401 Peachtree Battle avenue, N. W., at the Capital City Club.

Marilyn, 13, wrote Roddy about three years ago and told him how much she had enjoyed one of his pictures. Roddy answered her letter and through their correspondence they found that they had a hobby in common—that of collecting horse statues.

They exchanged snapshots and Roddy sent Marilyn a picture of himself and Flicka, the horse in his film, "My Friend Flicka." Mrs. McDowall, when she learned that she and her son would visit Atlanta, advised Mrs. McNaughton.

When the 15-year-old boy and Mrs. McDowall got to Atlanta they received a phone call from Marilyn's parents and an invitation to lunch.

Marilyn, who interviewed Tyrone Power for The Constitution in June, firmly declared: "I don't intend to try to interview Roddy. I liked writing a story about Tyrone, but it nearly scared me to death." She decided to omit the interview because it wasn't worth the anxiety she would go through.

Waiting in the McDowall suite before lunch, Roddy and Marilyn sat around and munched on candy, which was a gift from one of the boy's fans. The fair-skinned girl, her long curls framing her face prettily, joined Roddy in looking at a movie magazine. Huddled together, they found a story and pictures of Farley Granger, one of Roddy's best friends. The actor told Marilyn about his buddy, a star of "The Purple Heart," who is now in the Navy.

"Where is Tara?" Roddy asked the McNaughtons. After being told that no such place existed, the English star said: "Well, I've asked several people where the Tara of 'Gone With the Wind' is, and some say 30 miles from Atlanta and others 60." Roddy is extremely anxious to meet Margaret Mitchell, the author.

19 Truck Lines Facing Tie-Up

Threatening to tie up 19 truck lines operating out of Atlanta, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers has served notice on the War Labor Board that it must settle a contract dispute between the AFL local and one of its member truck lines by September 23.

The ultimatum was delivered yesterday by W. T. Archer, business agent of AFL Local No. 728, who criticized WLB's failure to order settlement of a dispute between the union and the Lewis & Holmes Motor Freight Corporation.

The case, involving Lewis & Holmes' alleged attempt to withdraw from its contract with the union, has been before the WLB since January 22, Archer said. He added that the union believes adequate time has been allowed for a settlement, and that a strike will be called at midnight, September 23, if no settlement has been reached.

Archer said that the WLB has issued an order in the case and three times has asked the truck line to comply, but that Lewis & Holmes has continually refused to comply.

In a letter to the WLB, Archer declared that, in event the board fails to settle the case within the specified time, he will call a strike of all member truck lines in the city "and keep them out on strike until the War Labor Board forces compliance."

In case of a tie-up, there will be as little interference with the war effort as possible, Archer said.

"I have talked with Army officials about the possibility of a teamsters' strike," he pointed out. "Of course we can't handle everything, but we will move whatever they designate as essential materials of war free of charge."

Collision Kills Woman, Driver

Thrown from an automobile in a collision late Sunday night, the body of a Negro woman, identified as Willie Mae Thompson, was found several hours later in a storm sewer near the scene of the accident.

The woman, police said, was riding in an automobile with Lonnie Carr, another Negro. Carr's automobile figured in a crash at Courtland and Cain streets. Thrown from the automobile, Carr was killed instantly. Police investigating the accident learned that a woman had been riding with him, but they were of the opinion she walked away before their arrival.

Carr's automobile, police said, was in a collision with another automobile operated by Hugh Dorsey Jones, of Rockmart, Ga.

Employes To Meet

Local 315, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, will meet at 5 p. m. today in Judge Jesse Wood's courtroom at the county courthouse, Harry Magbee, president, announced.

'T-Loans' Will Help War Plants Reconvert

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A program of guaranteed loans and commitments to help war plants swing immediately into civilian production upon termination of war contracts was announced today by the Federal Reserve Board.

Termination loans, popularly called "T-loans", were authorized by congress in the recent contract settlement act. An alternative program also was announced by the Office of Contract Settlement.

Loans will be made by private financial institutions, chiefly commercial banks, to war production contractors, to "unfreeze" working capital tied up in terminated contracts pending final settlement of claims.

Guarantees will be executed by the Federal Reserve banks as agents for the United States, acting in behalf of the War Department, Navy Department and Maritime Commission.

The maximum commitment fee that may be charged a borrower by a financing institution will be 1-4 of 1 per cent per year or alternatively a flat fee of $50. Under the new schedule, the fee is not shared by the guarantor.

The maximum rate of interest on any T-loan will be 4 1-2 per cent per year compared with 5 per cent heretofore. The 4 1-2 per cent maximum also will be made applicable to T-loans on the new forms.

Under the alternative to the T-loan program, Robert H. Hinckley, director of the Office of Contract Settlement, directed contracting procurement agencies to provide firms producing war materials with "adequate interim financing" within 30 days after they apply for it.

Under the termination loan program contractors may convert into cash approximately 90 per cent of the sound value of war assets frozen by contract termination.

Under the alternative of plan, prime contractors and subcontractors may apply to contracting agencies for payment of costs allocable to the terminated portion of the agreement. It provides for settlement of at least 75 and up to 90 per cent of estimated costs within 30 days. Additional payments may be made on submission of adequate accounting data, OCS said.

Atlanta Colonel, B. M. Bailey Jr., Killed in France

Lt. Col. B. M. Bailey Jr., of Atlanta, was killed in action in the recent fighting in France, according to word which the War Department sent yesterday to his wife at the Bailey home, in the Huntington Apartments, at 1765 Peachtree road, N. W. Mrs. Bailey was the former Miss Virginia Callaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cason J. Callaway, of Hamilton, Ga. He was 28 years old.

Details of Col. Bailey's death are lacking, but when last heard from he was serving with the Second Armored Division as a unit of Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army. About a month ago, The Constitution printed a picture which showed Col. Bailey in the act of explaining to Prime Minister Churchill, of Great Britain, the mechanism of one of the guns used in the armored division. This was on the occasion of Churchill's visit to the division's camp in England. With him at the time was Gen. Eisenhower, over-all commander of the Allied forces on the western front.

Born in Atlanta on October 19, 1916, Lt. Col. Bailey was the son of Col. B. M. Bailey, United States Army, retired, and Mrs. Bailey, who live in Atlanta at 1371 Peachtree road, N. E. After receiving his education in Atlanta public schools, young Bailey obtained an appointment to West Point Military Academy, from which he was graduated in 1939 with the rank of second lieutenant.

Rising rapidly to first lieutenant, then to captain, then to major and then, in 1944, to lieutenant colonel, Col. Bailey, first choosing the cavalry, was assigned to the tank corps. He went overseas with Gen. Patton's forces and landed at Casablanca in December, 1942. With the armored forces he served actively through the North African, the Sicilian and the Italian campaigns. Some months prior to D-Day, he received a transfer to England in preparation for the invasion of France. From the time he landed in France until his death he took part in Patton's campaign which broke the back of German resistance on the western front.

Col. Bailey was married to Miss Callaway in February, 1941. They have one son, B. M. Bailey III.

Trotti Assails 'Wilson' Foes

"'Wilson' is simply a story of an American and his family, and anyone who says it is political propaganda just hasn't seen the movie."

Thus did Lamar Trotti, former Atlanta newspaperman, and writer of the brilliant screen biography of the World War I president deliver a steaming retort to "Wilson" foes during an address at the Better Films Committee luncheon at the Piedmont hotel yesterday.

"It's a lot of nonsense, this banning of the picture to the armed forces," the writer continued. "It carries an important message about the same peace ideals Wilson fought for after the armistice and which we are again faced with shaping.

"The play is not just a drab biography of a school teacher who became president, but a story of a typical American family, sugar coated with lots of entertainment. It is designed to reach the masses as well as the classes," he said.

Trotti, who joined the Will Hays office in 1925, became one of Hollywood's leading writers. "Ramona," "Alexander Graham Bell" and "Guadalcanal Diary" are just a few of his best works. He has just completed work on "One World," Wendell Willkie's story, and will begin research on "Colonel Effingham's Raid" immediately following the "Wilson" premiere here Wednesday night.

He was introduced by Mrs. Willard Patterson.

Do You Own A "Scratching" Dog?
If you own and are fond of a dog that is continually scratching, digging, rubbing, biting himself until his skin is raw and sore, don't just feel sorry for him. The dog can't help himself. But you may. He may be clean and flea free and just suffering an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of his skin. Do as thousands of pleased dog owners are doing. At Hastings' Kennel Shop, Mitchell and Broad Sts., or any other well-stocked dealers, get a 25c package of Rex Hunters Dog Powders, and give them once a week. Note the quick improvement. One owner writes: "My setter female on Sept. 29th did not have a handful of hair on her body—all scratched and bitten off. I gave her the powders as directed. By Nov. 10th she was all haired out." Learn what they will do for your dog. Make a 25c test.—(adv.)

NAZI SUICIDE 'ACT OF DESERTION'

ROME, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Nazi soldiers in eastern France have been warned not to commit suicide because in time of war it is considered an act of desertion, a captured enemy order released by Allied headquarters disclosed today.

The order disclosed that two officers and a non-com had taken their lives recently.

Hartsfield Seeks Federal Funds

Mayor Hartsfield and Frank Wilson, superintendent of Grady hospital, are in Washington seeking federal funds for construction of a $400,000 Negro nurses' home at Grady hospital and for removal of flying hazards at the municipal airport.

They are to confer with Congressman Ramspeck, other members of the Georgia delegation in congress and with federal officials in an effort to get the green light for the two projects, regarded locally as "must" improvements.

Approval of the nurses' home has been expected for several weeks, but thus far no definite release has been made. And about two weeks ago Gen. Arnold, chief of the Army air forces, sent engineers to Atlanta to survey hazards after he had refused to approve a $2,500,000 runway extension program with the assertion that it could not be justified as a military necessity. At the time of the disapproval of the extension program, Gen. Arnold said certain other projected improvements could be classified as military necessities.

The Washington conferences have been arranged to obtain those which do conform to military needs, and also to expedite release of funds for the nurses' home.

ATLANTAN IN ENGLISH HOSPITAL CHEERED BY CABLEGRAM, 'A GIRL'

Pfc. Aaron W. Mitchell, wounded in action in the Normandy battle, has something to aid and encourage him in recovering.

Hardly had Mitchell reached a hospital in England when he received a cablegram.

"A girl," the brief message said.

"I'm lucky—twice lucky," Mitchell said after reading the message. "Here I got shot under the helmet and in the face, and now I am the father of a girl. Of course I'll get back home to see my baby."

Wilson and his wife reside at 276 Sunset avenue, N. W.

Maine Voters Beating PAC Candidates

By The Associated Press.

With more than half the vote counted, Republican candidates ran far ahead of CIO-supported Democrats last night in Maine's state election.

As was expected in the gubernatorial rate, Horace A. Hildreth, Republican president of the Maine senate, defeated the Democratic nominee, Paul J. Jullien, of Waterville, former state American Legian commander. Jullien conceded Hildreth's victory before midnight.

U. S. Rep. Robert Hale, Republican incumbent, was running far ahead in the first district, where the Maine United Labor committee waged a lusty campaign for the Democratic nominee, Andrew A. Pettis.

The United Labor Committee is Maine's affiliate of the CIO's PAC.

Pettis, CIO shipyard union president, also had attempted to unseat Hale in the primaries. He was defeated soundly as a Republican but won the Democratic nomination.

U. S. Rep. Margaret C. Smith (R) also was far ahead of David H. Staples, endorsed by the CIO group, in the second district. Mrs. Smith had been endorsed by leaders of the Maine AFL.

Observers conceded that Republican Frank Fellows had been elected in the third district over Ralph E. Graham, a Democrat who claimed support of several railway unions and an AFL shipfitters' union.

Texas Democrats girded for a battle today at a state party convention which may decide whether pro or anti-Roosevelt forces will control the state's 23 electoral votes.

HELP SAVE THE WOUNDED

Dean Johnson, Of Emory, Dies

Dr. Edgar Hutchinson Johnson, 71, dean emeritus of the School of Business Administration at Emory University, died unexpectedly last night at his home, 1237 Clifton road, N. E.

The dean had been about his usual duties during the day, but complained of feeling ill after dinner and apparently suffered a heart attack.

At his retirement from active service in 1942, Dr. Johnson outranked every other member of the Emory faculty in continuous service to the institution. He had been connected with Emory 47 years.

BORN AT PALMETTO

Born February 15, 1873, in Palmetto, Ga., Dean Johnson entered old Emory College at Oxford in 1889 and was graduated with the B. S. degree in 1891, the youngest member of his class. In 1891-93 he taught at Quitman College, Arkansas, then studied for two years at Johns Hopkins University.

In 1895 he returned to Emory to teach in the sub-freshman department then connected with the college. Students nicknamed him "Sub," an appellation by which he became known affectionately to many thousands of his students.

On a leave of absence in 1899 he obtained his M. S. degree from the University of Chicago. He returned to the campus as professor of history and economics. In 1903 he received his M. A. from Harvard, and in 1910 his Ph. D. from the University of Chicago.

MADE VICE PRESIDENT

Dr. Johnson was made vice president of Emory College in 1910. Following the resignation of President James E. Dickey in 1915 he served as acting president. With the merger of Emory College into Emory University in that same year Dr. Johnson became the first dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He served in that capacity until 1919, when the college was moved to Atlanta and he became the first dean of the newly created School of Business Administration. He also held the alumni chair of political economy.

Dr. Johnson was married in 1904 to Miss Susie McMichael, of Buena Vista, who survives him. He also is survived by a son, Lt. Edgar H. Johnson Jr., of the United States Navy; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas L. Ross Jr., of Macon, and three grandchildren.

ECONOMICS AUTHORITY

Recognized as an authority on economics and taxation, Dr. Johnson served as a member of a special Georgia tax commission in 1918-19 and again in 1929. He was a member of the social service commission of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, from 1918 to 1926; president of the Association of Georgia Colleges in 1919, and a trustee of the Atlanta School of Social Work. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Upon his retirement from the faculty in 1942 Emory conferred upon him the honorary degree of doctor of laws. In the citation read at that time he was hailed as a "persistent seeker of the truth; foe of sham and pretense; fearless critic of the false and superficial, yet gentle and sympathetic in his dealings with others."

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Bell Bomber Gives $35,000 To Community, War Fund

An advance gift of $35,000 from the Bell Aircraft Corporation on behalf of the Georgia division—better known locally as the Bell Bomber plant—has been announced as the first official contribution to the 1944 campaign of Greater Atlanta's United Community and War Fund.

JAMES REEVES LITTLE
Atlanta Merchant Dies

The check was turned over yesterday afternoon at the plant by Carl A. Cover, manager of the plant, and James V. Carmichael, assistant manager. In the group receiving it were Hal S. Dumas and Harry Sommers, who, with Charles H. Jagels, are co-chairmen of the big five-county effort; Carlyle Fraser and R. H. White Jr., chairman and co-chairman of the initial gifts committee, and A. Steve Clay, chairman of corporation group No. 1 of the advance gifts section.

Meanwhile, plans were going forward for the big rally and salute to the armed force which will take place next Sunday at 3:30 p. m. in the city auditorium. Lt. Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps; Sgt. Charles E. (Commando) Kelly, hero of the Italian campaign, and Robert St. John, noted author, war correspondent and news commentator, are three of the luminaries who will address the crowd expected for the occasion.

The big united effort, which begins formally September 25, to continue through October 10, will combine the efforts of citizens in Clayton, Cobb, DeKalb, Fulton and Rockdale counties. Its aim is to raise funds for the next 12 months' support of 31 agencies included in the Atlanta Community Fund and 22 agencies which compose the National War Fund.

Initial gifts groups, such as the one which yesterday received the Bell contribution, are already at work on the campaign, although it is still two weeks before actual city-wide solicitation begins.

BIG GIFT FOR FUND—A splendid start for Greater Atlanta's 1944 United Community and War Fund was made yesterday when officials of the Georgia division of the Bell Aircraft Corporation made the first official contribution—a check for $35,000. In the group, left to right, are Carlyle Fraser, chairman of the advance gifts committee of the drive; James V. (Jimmy) Carmichael, assistant manager of the bomber plant; A. Steve Clay, chairman of corporations committee No. 1 of the drive; Carl A. Cover, manager of the plant; R. H. White Jr., co-chairman of the advance gifts section; Harry Sommers and Hal S. Dumas, the latter pair general co-chairman of the campaign.

James R. Little, Merchant, Dies

James Reeves Little, 80, president of the Dougherty-Little-Redwine Company, died yesterday at the residence, 2472 Peachtree road.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Robert A. Perryman Little; a daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Meriwether; a son, A. Perryman Little; a brother, G. W. Little; a nephew, George Mell Little, and three grandchildren, Betty, Margaret and Charles Meriwether Jr.

Born in Bowdon, Ga., Little was the son of Rev. Samuel Boyd Little and Annie Reeves Little. He came to Atlanta when he was 17. He was employed by the John Silvey Company and later became a junior partner of that company. In 1903 he helped to organize the Dougherty-Ward-Little Company, later reorganized under the name of Dougherty-Little-Redwine Company. He was a member of the First Baptist church.

W. G. Blackstock Succumbs at 43

W. G. Blackstock, 43, of 400 Washington street, S. W., driver for United States division engineers, was stricken ill yesterday at the residence and died en route to Grady hospital, according to Patrolmen W. S. Acree and George Christian.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. H. M. Smith and Miss Carolyn Blackstock; two sons, Arnold and Walter Blackstock; three brothers, B. D., F. A. and H. P. Blackstock, and three sisters, Mrs. Robert Peavy, Mrs. Fred Rogers and Mrs. Davis Young.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Austin Dillon.

U. S. Shares Cost Of Vets' Office

With the federal government taking over salary payment of the state director, expenditures of the State Veteran's Service Office declined during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1944, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. has reported.

The state paid Director C. Arthur Cheatham $666 for two months salary, and then the federal government began paying this officer.

During the year the state opened offices at Albany, Athens, Macon and Valdosta, the auditor said. Half the cost of these offices was borne by the state and half by the city and county and organizations.

Operating costs this year totalled $27,795, as compared with $35,384 last year, and $42,004 in 1942, Thrasher said.

In another audit released yesterday, the state board of regents' office showed an operating surplus of $199,424. The regents had $288,895 available for operations.

Operating costs dropped during the year, the audit showed. Cost of general administration declined from $33,893 to $33,751; capital outlay and building equipment costs dropped from $72,394 to $42,393. Cost of resurveying the system was $7,101, as compared with $351. Soil conservation increased from $4,051 to $5,179. A new item, Negro higher education, cost $1,044.

Accountants To Meet

The directors of the Atlanta chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants will meet at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Robert Fulton hotel.

Arnall Visits State Prison

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 11.—Gov. Arnall, under whom sweeping penal reform measures were enacted, arrived here last today for his first visit to the Georgia State Prison.

He was accompanied by four members of the department of corrections' advisory board: Chairman Wiley L. Moore, of Atlanta; Judge Frank Gabriels, of Clarkesville; H. Turner Brice, of Quitman, and Mrs. J. G. Blalock, of Atlanta.

"I had never visited Tattnall before, and I wanted to see conditions here for myself," the Governor told a Constitution representative. "I have heard many conflicting reports lately concerning the prison."

The chief executive said he had not had a chance to view any of the prison reforms or look into any matters under criticism yet, due to his late arrival. He said the party will remain here long enough to get a comprehensive view of the prison and its activities.

"Everything was quiet when we arrived," Arnall said.

Lt. Rubye Smith Rites Are Set

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Sept. 11.—Funeral services for Lt. Rubye Montez Smith, 32, who died Sunday morning at Camp Kilmer, N. J., Army hospital, will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Dahlonega Methodist church, with the Rev. Frank Morehead, pastor, officiating, assisted by the Rev. George O. King, former pastor. Burial will be in the cemetery there.

There will be a military escort from Camp Kilmer and also from Fort Benning.

A daughter of H. B. Smith and the late Mrs. Smith, she was graduated from North Georgia College, Downey Hospital, in Gainesville, and did postgraduate work in Cook County hospital, in Chicago. Before entering the service she was superintendent of Mary Black Memorial hospital in Spartanburg, S. C.

She is survived by her father, of Dahlonega; two brothers, O. T. Smith, of The Atlanta Constitution composing room, and Mayor Vernon H. Smith, of Dahlonega; two sisters, Mrs. J. R. McKenna, of Miami, and Miss Ruth Smith, of Atlanta.

Cause for Action Ruled for Four In Laundry Fire

Four owners of fur coats destroyed in the Briarcliff Laundry fire last year have a cause for action against both the "original" and the "new" owners of the laundry, the Georgia supreme court has ruled.

However, the high court ruled that the Fulton National Bank, trustee of the "old company" (Briarcliff, Inc.), should not have been enjoined from collecting $200,000 insurance on the laundry in payment of a note executed by the "new company" (Briarcliff Laundry, Inc.) and turning it over to a court-appointed trustee.

Thus the opinion announced by the supreme court yesterday partially affirmed, and partially reversed the decision of the Fulton superior court.

The plaintiffs, who sought $100 damages each, were Mrs. J. H. Kelley, Mrs. M. G. Wilby, Mrs. Elsie Black and Fannie Rowe.

The court records showed Asa G. Candler was president of the "old company," or Briarcliff, Inc., while the new firm (Briarcliff Laundry, Inc.) was operated by his sons, John and Sam Candler.

In another decision yesterday, the supreme court upheld judgment for $11,000 granted Mrs. Mary Woolley Allen, of Atlanta, against her ex-husband, E. W. Allen. Allen was arrested recently for alleged failure to pay alimony in a divorce case.

New Fire Truck

A 65-foot aerial fire truck has been put into service at the Buckhead fire station. The truck, which was ordered several weeks ago by Commissioner Ed Almand, chairman of the fire committee, arrived last week and is the only 65-foot extension ladder now in use in county fire departments.

Before the War—PHILCO
RESEARCH MODERNIZED
THE RADIO-PHONOGRAPH!
When recorded music returned to popularity, after having been overshadowed by radio for many years, Philco research brought the phonograph of the early "twenties" up to date. From its laboratories came basic improvements that modernized the playing and enjoyment of records and brought electronic record reproduction within reach of all.
NO NEEDLES TO CHANGE — A permanent jewel that never needs changing floats over the records. The scratchy steel needle is gone forever.
NEW BEAUTY OF TONE — Glorious overtones of beauty, long hidden in your records, were released ... unmarred by needle scratch.
LONGER RECORD LIFE — Surface noise and record wear reduced by 10 to 1. You enjoy your valuable recordings ten times longer.
TILT FRONT CABINET — No lid to lift. Just tilt the grille forward and place your records. No groping...no need to remove decorations.
After Victory—PHILCO WILL ADD
NEW JOYS TO RECORDED MUSIC
When the Philco laboratories return to their peacetime tasks, the radio and electronic research which made Philco the overwhelming leader for 12 straight years will be devoted once more to bringing you greater enjoyment of recorded music. The Philco Radio-Phonograph of the future will make new contributions to the delights of record reproduction... in beauty and fullness of tone, in ease and convenience of operation... and in charm of cabinet design.
But even more important, Philco leadership will continue its tradition of outstanding quality and value. Whether it's a model to tuck away on a convenient table or a gorgeous period cabinet for a place of honor in your living room, a Philco Radio-Phonograph will give you, as always, the industry's greatest value for the price you pay! Your Philco dealer will have good news for you—when Victory is won!

were across the Kwangsi border, Stillwell's headquarters reported U. S. 14th Air Force planes had hit a ferry crossing at Chuanhsien in operations supporting Chinese ground troops. Chaunhsien is seven miles inside Kwangsi. Its capture would represent a 25-mile advance for the enemy from the Hunan province town of Tungan.

KEY PORT TOTTERS

Reporting fresh Japanese gains in other battle sectors, the high command said enemy units had penetrated the suburbs of the important port of Wenchow, in Chekiang province 225 miles south of Shanghai, and that Japanese had opened a new drive northward from the Hoihong peninsula in Kwangtung.

Seven Japanese columns were reported pushing westward toward Poaching, 63 miles west of Hengyang.

In Kwangtung province, Chinese forces recaptured the town of Toishan, 60 miles south of Canton. The high command also said the ring around surviving Japanese troops in the eastern corner of Tengchung had been tightened.

RAKE AIRFIELDS

The American force which swept into the heart of Japan's Southwest Pacific holdings was part of the Third U. S. Fleet, commanded by Adm. William S. Halsey Jr., and its attack on Mindanao was a crowning blow in widespread actions which for the last few days have struck at Yap and Palau Islands to the east of the Philippines.

The Navy's communique said:

"The airfields at Del Monte Valencia, Cagayan, Buayan and Davao were bombed and strafed. In these attacks two enemy aircraft were encountered near our carriers, five were encountered over Cagayan, and one over Davao. All were shot down. Approximately 60 enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground.

"A convoy was discovered off Hinatuan bay consisting of 32 loaded cargo ships and 20 sampans. This convoy was brought under attack by Pacific fleet cruisers, destroyers and carrier aircraft, and all of the enemy ships were destroyed."

BARRACKS HIT

Barracks, warehouses and hangars were hit at the several airdromes attacked. Enemy waterfront installations at Matina, Cagayan and Surigao were also bombed, the announcement said.

The hard-hitting units of the Third Fleet found enemy shipping in other vulnerable spots and opened up. In attacks in Saragani bay, Davao gulf, near Cagayan and Surigao, 16 small cargo ships, one medium cargo vessel, one patrol craft and many sampans were sunk or probably sunk. They set fire to two small cargo ships and at least 17 sampans.

"Our aircraft losses in the operations were very light," said the communique. "There was no damage to our surface ships."

SLAM PALAU

Attacks on the Palau islands continued the next day, Saturday (U. S. time), with more than 80 tons of bombs falling there. Numerous rockets were fired also by carrier aircraft. Targets included antiaircraft emplacements and other defense installations on Anguar, Peleliu and Koror islands in the Palau group.

The Mindanao raids covered most of the enemy's known positions on that southernmost of the Philippine Islands.

Heavy bombers of the 11th Air Force bombed Paramushiro island in the Kuriles Saturday and Sunday, and runways and air facilities at Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands were hit with 37 tons of bombs by Seventh Air Force Liberators the same day.

During the same exploding weekend of Navy action, Ponate in the Carolines, Pagan and Rota in the Marianas and positions in the by-passed Marshalls were hit by wide-ranging land-based bombers and fighters.

All were in the pattern of softening up Japanese bastions guarding entrances to the Philippines.

Firestone Boosts Phone Fund $235

Employes of the aircraft division of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, 480 Sawtell avenue, yesterday contributed $235 to the Heroes' Phone Calls Fund.

A check for this amount was presented by Ruth Rawlins, Firestone employe, and E. L. Liegel, plant manager, to Mrs. Gertrude Atkins, of The Constitution's business office.

The Firestone employes' donation boosted the total collected for the fund by The Constitution to $20,134.30.

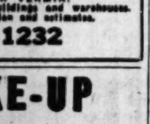

Other contributions received by the fund yesterday were $10 from A Friend and five dollars from Mrs. Simon Moltack.

ROBBER RETURNS PART OF LOOT

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A thief who had ransacked Miss Helen Wallace's home took pains to return what apparently he thought she was entitled to retain. He returned a small cedar chest, six $25 War Bonds and some financial papers—all by registered mail.

He kept $150 and a diamond ring.

Officer Kills Tire Slasher

Cornered in the act of slashing an automobile tire, Homer Shelton, 40, a Negro with a police record, was killed as he tried to attack a policeman, W. M. Cox, with a long knife. Shelton, a six-footer, who weighed about 235 pounds, was advancing on another man when the policeman appeared on the scene. As he turned on the policeman, Cox shot him.

For some time past the Atlanta Baggage and Cab Company, which parks its trucks in the space under the Spring street viaduct, has complained that some person was ruining its tires by cutting them to pieces. Last night V. S. Thompson, 29, of 355 Central avenue, S. W., a driver for the company, noticed a Negro sitting on the plaza wall, near the space where the company parks its trucks. Presently, the Negro went down the steps, which leads to the space under the viaduct and walked in the direction of the parking lot.

His suspicions aroused, Thompson followed the Negro and soon saw him leaning over a front wheel of one of the trucks. On a closer view, Thompson observed the Negro in the act of slashing the tire.

Thompson touched the Negro and demanded to know what he was doing. For reply, the Negro wheeled on Thompson with his knife and backed him into a corner between the concrete steps and the viaduct wall. As he advanced on Thompson, threatening to kill him, Thompson yelled for assistance.

Cox, a city patrolman, was making his rounds at the time. He heard Thompson and ran to his aid. As he did so, the Negro turned on Cox, still waving his knife. When he refused to halt, Cox shot him. The Negro continued to advance and Cox shot him again, this time killing him.

Police later identified the dead man as Shelton, who, they say, had no address. They are unable to account for his penchant for slashing automobile tires.

Defends Short In 'Pearl' Case

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP) Rep. Harness (R-Ind) declared today "there appears to be an abundance of evidence" that 72 hours before the Pearl Harbor attack of December 7, 1941, the Australian government advised Washington a Japanese aircraft carrier force was headed toward Pearl Harbor. He stated he was informed the information was not relayed to Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, then commanding Army forces in Hawaii.

In a speech in the house, Harness charged "the commander in chief has concealed the truth" of the Pearl Harbor disaster, by denying a hearing to Gen. Short and Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, the latter naval commander at Pearl Harbor at the time of the attack.

Harness asserted that Short stands willing to appear before Congress or any other official tribunal "and present documentary proof clearing him of responsibility."

British Troops Reopen Offensive in Burma

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon, Sept. 11.—(AP)—British 14th Army troops have opened an offensive against the Japanese in the long dormant Arakan sector in lower Burma and heavy fighting is in progress, it was announced today.

The attack is against a strategic enemy position on a ridge in the mayu range southwest of Buthidaung, about 60 miles north of the Burma city of Akyab on the Bay of Bengal. Japanese losses in three days of fighting were said to be heavy.

The offensive, breaking the monsoon lull, during which operations were limited to patrol actions, was launched through almost constant raincloud cover, screening the infantry charges but hampering aerial gunners, who were able to catch only fleeting glimpses of their targets.

OBY T. BREWER
New Muse President

Oby T. Brewer Heads Muse's

From stock boy to president of the George Muse Clothing Company in 35 years was the record which was crowned yesterday when it was formally announced that Oby T. Brewer, prominent Atlantic civic leader, had been named head of this large Atlanta concern.

J. Harry Alexander, former president of the firm, was elected chairman of the board; Nesbit Tilly, vice president and merchandising manager; John J. Vogel, treasurer, and A. Leon Stipe, secretary and comptroller, at the regular monthly meeting of the directors yesterday.

Brewer, who also is president of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, has long been active in Atlanta civic and business affairs. He is chairman of the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross, a member and former president of the Atlanta Humane Society, a steward of St. Mark Methodist church, a member of the Yaarab Temple of the Mystic Shrine, and has been active in the local selective service system since it first went into operation, as a member of DeKalb county board No. 1.

For years active in civic organizations, Brewer is now treasurer of Civitan International and is also past president of the Atlanta Civitan Club.

He will continue to direct the advertising and promotional work of the company, features which he has handled since his election several years ago to the post of vice president and manager of public relations.

An Atlanta-owned and Atlanta-originated firm, Muse's official ranks are marked by terms of long service with the establishment. Alexander first went to work with Muse's 50 years ago; Tilly and Vogel have been with the store for 33 years each, Stipe for 27 years.

The store was organized 65 years ago, with the original location at 38 Whitehall street, later moving to 3, 5 and 7 Whitehall; finally, in March, 1921, to the present building, which it occupies exclusively, at 52 Peachtree street, with frontage also on Broad and Walton streets.

From his original job as stock boy, Brewer became assistant to the window display department, later took over this work, acted as salesman in various departments of the store and for several years has also been store manager, in addition to his other duties.

Brewer was born in Atlanta, but his family moved to Marietta when he was 7, later returning to Atlanta, where he attended Boys' High school.

Former Insurance Man, G. Allen Wilder, Dies

G. Allen Wilder, 70, of Briarcliff road, former Atlanta insurance man and DeKalb county farmer, died yesterday in a private hospital after a short illness.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Friday at Spring Hill, with the Rev. A. M. Pierce officiating. Burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

Survivors include two daughters, Miss Dorothy Wilder, and Mrs. Paul Y. Hughes; three sons, Dr. Frank N. Wilder, of Louisville, Ky., Sgt. Herbert H. Wilder and Capt. E. A. Wilder, both of the Army; four sisters, Misses Ellen, Laura, Georgia and Hope Wilder, all of Atlanta; and a brother, Frank Wilder, of Forsyth, Ga.

A native of Monroe county, he had lived in Atlanta and DeKalb county for 48 years. He was graduated from Emory University and was a member of Chi Phi fraternity.

Mrs. C. A. Cook Returns From Bataan Assembly

Mrs. Charles A. Cook, of 650 Ormewood avenue, S. E., president of the Philippine-American Club of Atlanta, has returned from Washington, where she attended the recent Bataan assembly for federated organizations. She reports that plans were being made for parents to meet the men of Bataan on the west coast when they are delivered from Japanese imprisonment.

A great deal was accomplished at this meeting, Mrs. Cook said. The delegates conferred with President Osmena, of the Philippine Republic, and Senator Chavez, of New Mexico, who has sponsored legislation in behalf of the captured Bataan troops.

SOVIET CENSOR PASSES STORY HINTING AID AGAINST JAPS

MOSCOW, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The forthcoming Roosevelt-Churchill conference at Quebec has not been reported in the Soviet press as yet, but officials are showing keen interest in it.

Foreign observers here believe there is a strong possibility that the Russian-British-American military nartnership which is now defeating Germany will become effective elsewhere after the Nazis' collapse.

of the big port of Le Havre, and now dominate the city although they are under intense fire from the harbor's big guns.

The Germans have a garrison of 2,000 to 4,000 here, and an estimated 35,000 more in the closely-invested channel ports of Boulogne, Calais and Dunkerque, including 10,000 at Dunkerque.

Canadians and Poles were engaged in severe fighting in expanding bridgeheads over the Gent canal at Oostkamp and the Leopold canal southeast of Brugge. The Poles took 1,200 prisoners.

In the drive to Aumetz, the Third Army overran much of the old French fortifications and were in a position to strike northeastward toward Germany and the Saar in concert with the First Army.

Some 120 miles southwest of where the Americans are fighting around Nancy, Gen. Patton's Third Army patrols met advance elements of Gen. Patch's Seventh Army—driving up from southern France—in the vicinity of Sombernon, 11 miles west of the road center of Dijon.

LINES ALMOST SOLID

Thus for more than 300 miles, the sprawling lines of the Allies were joined almost solidly—from Holland south through Belgium, into Luxembourg and on into France—since the U. S. First Army earlier met the British in northern Belgium. There remains only the small gap between the U. S. First and Third Armies, probably no more than 15 miles.

Sweeping through the Maginot line positions, the Third Army found the French 135-millimeter guns still pointing eastward, ready to fire except for ammunition, AP Correspondent Edward D. Ball reported from the front.

There had been reports that most of the underground fortifications' guns had been moved out, but Ball was told by a young French caretaker that the Germans seized little except bedding.

NAZIS STRIP FORT

It was different at Fort Pont St. Vincent, well to the south, which although an old-timer from the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 had been remodeled to form the rear defenses of the Maginot line.

The Germans had stripped the fort of its guns and equipments, but its tunnels and concrete casements shed German shells and bombs.

Its positions on the heights dominate the countryside for 20 miles south of Nancy and the Germans, realizing their error in yielding it to charging infantry and cavalry, tried to retake it Sunday night.

FOE CHASED BACK

They crossed the Moselle river, east of the fortress, and tried to scale the fortifications, but were chased back across the stream.

With the fort, once commanded by Marshal Foch, firmly in American hands, the doughboys then moved over to the Moselle and in assault boats stormed across the river at numerous points.

The British Second Army, presumably accompanied by a Dutch brigade coming back home after four years of exile, crossed the Netherlands frontier 14 miles north of the broken Albert canal line in a drive apparently aimed at the road and rail center of Eindhoven, 12 miles ahead.

NAZI BODIES HEAPED

Only 38 miles northeast of Eindhoven is the German city of Kleve, standing at the northern extremity of the Siegfried line.

The British and Dutch moved over a battlefield heaped with the bodies of German troops who had rushed down from Denmark and Holland to try to hold back this gathering threat to the only fortified positions guarding the road to Berlin.

In three days of fighting around Bourg-Leopold and Hechtel, 35 to 40 miles east of Antwerp, the British took 12,000 prisoners and killed 1,200 Germans in a single day.

Allied air power was brought home more forcefully to the German citizens than ever before, with fighters in great force knocking out 130 German planes in dog fights that raged over the Rhineland and deep into the interior.

Medium and dive bombers also joined the battle in support of the U. S. Third Army, knocking out six big gun emplacements blocking the advance across the Moselle river and plastering German headquarters in the great Lorraine province city of Metz.

Quebec Parley Maps War's Final Stages

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL.

QUEBEC, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Within the weathered stone ramparts of Quebec's ancient citadel, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill of Britain began forging tonight the strategy for final victory over Japan.

Absent from their deliberations was that third leader of the United Nations triumvirate, Premier Joseph Stalin of Russia—whose armies are not at war with Japan.

He had been invited to a conference which apparently had to concern itself primarily with the battle of the Pacific. But the fact that he sent back word that he was too busy directing offensives on multiple fronts to leave "the direction of the army for the shortest period" offered no great assurances to Japan.

Transmission through stringent Soviet political censorship of an Associated Press dispatch from Moscow saying foreign observers there foresaw continued military co-operation "elsewhere" after the defeat of Germany, contributed to a generally genial atmosphere here, despite the absence of Soviet representatives.

TASS REPRESENTED

The Soviet official news agency, Tass, was represented here by one correspondent, Nikolai Zhivaynov, and it was understood the Soviet government was being advised of at least part of the deliberations through diplomatic channels.

The Russians, while becoming increasingly critical of the Japanese in their press, have remained strictly correct in carrying out their 1941 neutrality pact.

Churchill and Roosevelt, without jeopardizing any chances of a future turn by the Soviet Union against Japan, went to work on plan to bring down Japan, based on the present situation and the forces already available, without taking Russia into their estimates.

Not since they concluded significant discussions last December, at Cairo and Teheran, had Roosevelt and Churchill met for one of their periodic war councils. Then, with Stalin's counsel, they had seated the plans for the powerful invasions which have driven Germany to the point of utter defeat.

The 1944 Quebec conference therefore was in order. Strong measures against Japan demanded attention.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early made it apparent that the emphasis here would be on those measures, even though China is not represented in the deliberations. "This conference opening here today," he told reporters, "makes it appropriate to say that the President's recent inspection tour of the Pacific—his trip to Pearl Harbor and the Aleutians—and his conferences with Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur, were very necessary preliminaries to this conference."

This eighth Roosevelt-Churchill meeting Early described as "largely if not exclusively a military conference."

The chief executive and his British ally arrived by special trains in midmorning—Mr. Roosevelt from below the border, Churchill from Halifax, where he ended an Atlantic crossing yesterday.

Seated in an open auto beside his train, Mr. Roosevelt watched, a smile of welcome lighting his face, as Churchill got off his own train four tracks away and walked over to renew acquaintances.

"Hello," the President called. "I'm glad to see you. Eleanor is here. Did you have a nice trip?"

"Well," Churchill answered, talking through, around and over a chubby black cigar, "we had three beautiful days. But I was frightfully sick."

"I've lost some weight," Mr. Roosevelt informed him.

"I've lost some color," Churchill responded.

Then, seriously, they switched their conversation to war and victory.

"Victory," the prime minister declared, "is everywhere."

Welcoming the two distinguished visitors to Quebec were the governor general of Canada, the Earl of Athlone, and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

The Truth Shall Make Men Free

Nothing that the victorious Allies can do, when the war is won, for the attainment of lasting peace thereafter, can be more important than the proposal, advanced by the American State Department, for a world-wide guarantee of freedom of news, pledged by all the nations.

The proposed free news policy has not yet been announced in full detail. When it is ready, it will be submitted to the other United Nations for their approval. It is known, however, that the plan as worked out by the State Department at Washington has two main clauses.

One provides that newsmen shall have the right to gather news wherever it develops or exists and the right to write it and transmit it out of any country without interference.

The second clause provides that each country shall permit the unhindered receipt of news, uncensored, from anywhere else in the world.

The foundation of any world peace must be the full understanding of the peoples of the different nations. If the day comes when the average man or woman of one country feels that the average citizens of another are so well known to them that they are recognized as but "folks" it will be impossible to lead the people of such closely linked nations into war with each other.

The Nazis would never have been able to control the people of Germany and use them for their nefarious schemes, if they had not first seized control of all avenues of information, feeding the German people on lies and half-truths, twisted for their foul propaganda purposes.

It will take many years, perhaps a generation or two, to disabuse the German mind of the falsities implanted in the Hitler youth of the present generation. It can, however, be done through patient re-education and the first and most important method for that teaching is in bringing truth in news to those Germans. The first step for the Allies, after Germany surrenders, must be to seize all means of communicatiton in and into that country and see that the truth, both as to the history of the war and as to current events, is provided for all Germans.

Freedom of the press is, beyond question, vital to a free democracy. Freedom of the press is, just as truly, vital to the creation of that international understanding which must be achieved before we can create any stable structure of world peace.

The Army Needs Nurses Badly

Since war began six Army nurses have been killed by enemy action; 24 have been wounded, and 66 are prisoners of war. A number have been decorated for gallantry in action, attending wounded under fire.

All have demonstrated their ability to save the lives of our men. The results have been amazing. Due to medical skill and good nursing 97 per cent of those wounded in this war will come home alive.

In this war medical attention is given much more quickly after being wounded than in any other war. Those nurses who are in combat dress perform their duties as close to the fighting units as possible. Every minute counts. So, from the time they are wounded until discharged, these men need the care of trained nurses.

The Army has issued a call for more nurses. Not all, of course, will see action. But all will do the job of caring for the men who are fighting our war.

Those who have been declared available by the procurement and assignment division of the War Manpower Commission are urged to present themselves to any Red Cross chapter for certification.

The need is immediate and it is serious.

If you are one of those trained women who would rather be with them than waiting for them to come home, this is the time to decide to join up.

You are needed by your country and the men who have been wounded serving it.

Will Mr. Alger Please Move On!

If Horatio Alger will kindly move on we would like to present in his stead Oby T. Brewer.

Mr. Brewer has just been elected president of the George Muse Clothing Company, an Atlanta concern organized here 65 years ago.

It was in 1909 that a very earnest young man went to work as a stock boy in the tailoring shop. He was just out of Boys' High school and ambitious to get along. From stock boy he climbed to secretary, vice president and now president. His story fits exactly into the pattern of the American dream—the country where a young man with plenty of "git and go" can climb.

In addition to all this Oby Brewer has become one of our really valuable citizens. He is serving his third year as chairman of the Atlanta chapter of the Red Cross. He is president of the Retail Merchants' Association and of the Humane Society. A former president of the local Civitan Club, he now is treasurer of Civitan International. Oby Brewer is one of the strong ones who pull the Atlanta civic wagon.

He succeeds another splendid Atlanta citizen, J. Harry Alexander, who becomes chairman of the board after more than 50 years of service. His story, too, has some of the elements of Horatio Alger. He went to work for Muse's as a bookkeeper and became its president. The Atlanta Constitution is happy in the privilege of congratulating Mr. Brewer and Mr. Alexander and the supporting officers, Nesbitt Tilly, John J. Vogel and A. L. Stipe.

Back to School

Editor, Constitution: Dear youth of America, you the new young blood of our blessed country: you our great men and women of the tomorrow, please go back to school and finish your education. Do that as a tribute of thanks to your Divine Providence, a thanks that is in order for generations to come, for it is you, my dear, who will and must help guide the new world that is fast being born. To do that you must be instantly alert, intelligent enough to carry on immediately without any misgivings within yourself.

You have much to be thankful for. Instead of our homeland being occupied by oppressors, who were want to teach us their way, who would have taught you and your little ones their way, you will hereafter instead be teaching them, the oppressors, your way of life. And the reason it came out this way is because you yourselves are being taught the ideals and righteous way of living.

You will not realize it now, but only when you are called upon in a few more tomorrows will you then realize and wish and almost weep that you had sense enough to have attained that which was then attainable. You will realize when you are called upon and fail and left standing alone, the opportunity fast fleeting on by.

Please take heed; you owe it to your great country, blessed by the Lord. Give to the Holy family this grace to show respects for only tasting a mere little sting of the great whip as it lashed to and fro, leaving on you and your country no great scarring welts.

It is up to you dear youth of America to show the world an even greater America! To do that you must have a thorough education. Do not sell your birthright for a mess of porridge!

Cigarets

Editor, Constitution: I note Ralph Jones' column on cigarets. Just want you to know I have been here two and one-half months and have had no trouble at all. Have bought cartons of various brands several times. If the dealers are out they have them in a day or two.

Seems to me he is right. The scarce rule should apply everywhere and if a small town like St. Simons can have cartons for sale Atlanta should have also and they have in my opinion (under the counter.)

Pegler vs. Lerner

Editor, Constitution: I'm generally quite liberal in my ideas concerning labor and politics; and open, honest discussions regarding these topics so that the public can hear both sides and form intelligent opinions. I therefore congratulate Mr. Pegler on his article concerning the absence of honest, head-on debate in politics and recent controversies. I most heartily agree with him on this "expose"—but does Pegler adhere to his own conclusions drawn from his "studious observations"?

There have been many issues taken up against Pegler by thinking individuals of our country—Max Lerner specifically, in a New York newspaper, asked—or I should say dared—Mr. Westbrook Pegler to debate his "observations" on the radio. Mr. Pegler never replied to this challenge. I wonder whether he is willing to openly debate and back up his opinions now?

I'll be the "I'll hold your coat until you fight him" guy, Mr. Pegler. I challenge you to debate Max Lerner in an open discussion on your labor and political accusations. Man or mouse?

Remember When We Chose the 2 Chickens?

Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover were promising the more abundant life, the end of poverty, two chickens in every pot, two cars in every garage.

Woodrow Wilson was giving us a quotation from the Bible, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

So, having to choose between two boiled chickens and a theoretical college professor, we chose practicality and the two chickens.

As it turned out, we didn't get the chickens. We were lucky to have anything in the pot at all. Indeed, a great many persons didn't have anything. There were those who boiled wild greens, hunted in the field, and a little boiling meat handed out by the broke and disrupted charitable institutions. And many went hungry.

But we did reap what we sowed.

In fact, we are reaping it right now, in the Pacific, in France, in far-flung islands, in the air, on the seas and beneath them.

We are reaping it here at home in a domestic economy distorted and exaggerated in all its phases by war.

Today the nation is talking about, and going to see, a moving picture into which is compressed some of the story of this prophet.

It is an interesting picture in more than one respect. Hollywood executives, running annual private polls, have been informed the average intelligence quotient of their audiences is about 12 years.

Indeed, Darryl F. Zanuck, who made this picture of Wilson, has said that if the movie audiences do not like it he will never make another picture that does not have Miss Betty Grable and her legs in it, plus a plot in which the little neglected girl turns out to be just the star Hollywood and Broadway is looking for and marries the wealthy boy with the heart, and purse, of gold in the last reel.

He spent something like $3,000,000 on the picture, duplicating a national political convention and the tremendous Hall of Mirrors at Versailles where the peace treaty of the first World War was signed in the summer of 1919—and defeated in the United States senate in November of that year.

It will be interesting to see how this country reacts to this picture. Does it want something out of its history, or must the diet always be the old familiar plot of legs-and-poor-girl-marries-rich-boy?

Southern Wilson was of the south. The 28th President of the United States was born at Staunton, Va. When he was born the Civil War had been over nine years.

Men growing up in that period either became slightly bitter and thoughtful, or they gave up the struggle and excused themselves and their failures with "the war." A great many became acutely interested in the tides and currents of history which help explain the "why" of things and which often will allow one to see a tide setting in a certain direction.

Wilson's father was preaching at Augusta, Ga., when the boy was two years old. From there he went to Columbia, S. C., and on to Wilmington, N. C.

The boy had a breakdown at the Presbyterian College of Davidson, stayed out a year, and graduated from Princeton. He began practice of law in Atlanta. He didn't like law. He gravitated to teaching and he was president of Princeton when a political boss made him Governor of New Jersey.

Fighter He promptly embarrassed the boss by seeking to put through the legislature a program of laws curbing the power of the great corporations of New Jersey. He created quite an uproar and the country heard it. It was easy to elect him President in 1912 when Taft and Teddy Roosevelt split.

He had learned it out of books, but he knew government. He had accomplished a stupendous lot of reforms by 1914 when the war came. He was slow seeing the full meaning of war, but once he realized a fact always true, then and now, that the tremendous strength and weight of this country make it a participant in any world war whether it wishes to be or not, he put his hand to the plow and never let it drop.

When the war was won Wilson already was defeated. The country didn't see beyond its shorelines.

The League Now, no one can say whether a League of Nations, backed by the full power of the United States, would have worked or not.

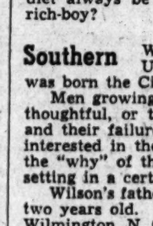

All we do know is that the course we followed did not work.

The League was not as badly planned as its opponents like us to believe. It had provisions for correcting errors, a fact which a certain German Fuehrer conveniently failed to mention. It is well, too, to recall that William H. Taft and Elihu Root, with other Republicans, rose above the small, mean partisanship of the crowd which defeated the League. Afraid of Wilson's "New Order," we waited for Hitler's.

We wanted no professor to tell us what to do.

We waited for Adolf, the practical, hard-headed man.

Now we have another chance. I hope all America will see this picture, "Wilson." Grable's legs are pretty but Wilson's idea is stronger and will last longer.

Outflanking the Foe Over Two Dimensions

Tactics in battle used to be operated over one dimension, the plane of the earth's surface. A general could attack frontally, or could endeavor to outflank the enemy army, using the football tactic of the end run, to get around the flanks and thus "turn" the position.

Now, with the development of airborne troops, it is possible to outflank the foe in another dimension. You can "turn" his position, get behind him, not only by going around the ends, but by jumping over his head.

Speculation on the coming struggle to smash the Siegfried line, or Westwall, indicates that the Allied forces are very apt to smash from the ground in the center, around both ends and, to add the conclusive punch, to get in the rear by strong airborne forces.

We have read of the great contribution made to the success of the Normandy landing by the airborne troops, the parachutists and the men of the glider trains. We know that parachutists have been used in other operations.

However, there is a tremendously powerful airborne army, a combined American and British force, which has not yet been used, in full strength. A far greater force than anything yet seen in this new battle development.

It is quite likely this great force will, when the proper time comes, drop down from the skies behind the Siegfried line and prove a decisive factor in the destruction of the German forces manning that line.

Ends Vulnerable There is strong possibility that we shall witness, in addition to the use of airborne troops, a turning of the ends of that vaunted Westwall.

The Siegfried line is strongest in its center and weakest at the two ends.

It was built by Hitler, prior to the opening of the war in 1939, with the intention of keeping France and England, if they should try to stop his plans of conquest in their inception, out of Germany while he built up his army and air force and, later, while he carried out his conquest plans in Czechoslovakia, Poland, etc.

It was the Nazi answer to France's Maginot line. In the earlier days of the war it was strengthend but, after the occupation of France, while Hitler thought he would never be driven out of the territory his armies had overrun, the Siegfried line was sort of forgotten and neglected. Much of its artillery was transferred to the coastal defenses, that Atlantic wall which he boasted so loudly that the Allies could never breach.

That end of the line near Switzerland never was so strong as the sectors to the northwest. And the most northerly end, where it runs along the Belgian and Netherlands border, is largely a weaker extension of the main line, built later. But don't get the idea any of it is at all weak, actually.

Deep Defenses The Siegfried line is a different type of defense work to the Maginot line. The French Maginot line was a stable, heavy, bastion which proved easy to smash once the Germans had swung around its end.

The Siegfried line, instead of a set-fortification, is rather an area, miles deep, covered by machinegun and artillery emplacements which are so arranged their enfilading fire sweeps all the territory over which our forces will have to attack in any frontal assault. It is a maze of pillboxes, dugouts, tank obstructions, artillery emplacements, barbed wire, etc. It is so deep that defending troops can fall back, a few yards at a time, and still be as well placed for many miles.

It is probably the hardest objective faced anywhere in the attack on Germany. Our troops in Italy have attacked and conquered line after line of enemy defenses and, today, they are beginning the job of smashing the last bastion there, the so-called Gothic line.

But none of these posed the problem that is the Siegfried line.

It is believed the Germans have manned this last defense before their homeland with all the best troops they have left. Which means that the battle of the Siegfried line will probably be the final, decisive battle of the war in Europe. Once that is smashed and taken, it is doubtful if the Germans will have anything left.

So, watch the British Second army at the northern end and Gen. Patch's American-French army at the southern end. And watch for great swarms of paratroopers and glider troops landing behind the Germans and attacking from the rear.

While, all the time, the American First and Third armies will be pounding away in the center.

Only Unknown Evokes Fear

People live trustfully on the side of a rumbling volcano, for the thing man fears is unknown, and nothing seems dangerous if it is familiar. War itself loses its terrors for the old veteran.

Ernie Pyle recently said that boys at the front, constantly alert, always under tension because death is close, break down cell by cell because the strain is unendurable. But isn't their whole trouble mental? Isn't the strain the result of imagination?

Consider the workers in our great war factories. Before the invasion began, our industrial casualties outnumbered battle casualties. Like the soldiers, men in factories labored in the midst of deafening noise. None knew at what moment he might be burned or maimed or killed. Death struck scores of times every day; thousands of men were crippled every month.

Why weren't they constantly alert and under tension? Why did not they break down cell by cell? The difference was in their minds. They were not aware of their danger, nor convinced that death was near. No matter how many others were killed, they felt safe and therefore felt no strain. Not one in a million was hospitalized for "combat fatigue."

Primitive man survived for a different reason. He was familiar with strain and had no knowledge of any other way of life. He was constantly alert, for death lurked in every shadow by day and everywhere under cover of night. It crouched on every tree limb and cliff top; it waited in the grass under his feet. He moved warily and reacted instantly to every sound, for his nerves were taut as a fiddlestring.

Maybe he had some quality or capacity, shared by the wild creatures, which civilized man has lost. Certainly the primitives of which we have knowledge—the Eskimos of the far north, the aborigines of Australia and the blacks of Africa and the Solomons—are better hunters than white men, and craftier when they are being hunted. So was the American Indian.

The primitives have the stoic patience to lie in wait hour after hour, despite cramped muscles and crawling insects and thirst and rain and sun, as still as death itself. Whether the explanation is fatalism or superstition or lack of imagination, they risk death with apparent unconcern and seem to have no nerves. The Jap talent for lying in ambush and using trickery may be due to the fact that he hasn't outgrown the capacities of his primitive and savage ancestors.

It is thinking that strains nerves. Soldiers who lately drove their cars at 70 or 80 m.p.h. were always close to death, but they did not realize it and therefore felt no tension.

SENATOR SOAPER

The bulldozer was well and favorably known here in prewar days, though not as a device for handling Japanese crowds.

Nearly $3,000 was found in a refrigerator sold at a St. Louis auction, and as one man the primary class in punning chorused, "in cold cash."

Tables without vibration or sway are promised in the postwar dining car. It was about time. Nothing so unsettles the squeamish traceler as a high surf running in the soup.

Only publicized nickname of General Patch, now storming up the Rhone, is Sandy. Yet the possibilities are endless, ranging from cabbage through potato.

What will the mighty Allies do next? What strange fate lies in store for the Nazi, driven back to his lair? Don't miss tomorrow's thrilling installment.

South Pacific Communique

Somewhere in the Southwest Pacific (Back planning tent shows and tanks)—They took a straw vote on the presidential race among the soldiers here in New Guinea the other day and Betty Grable leads by 10,000.

Paul Lillus, Notre Dame football star, took us over to the Navy base on a near-by island in a PT boat to do two shows . . . Nice ride over—we touched water twice.

These PT boys hadn't seen a girl for almost 14 months and when Patty Thomas walked on the stage in her dancing costume, one of them yelled out loud: "Is this real?"

Then Frances Langford came on and sang the first line of "No Love, No Nothing" and one of the kids in the audience cracked: "You ain't kidding."

I have been speaking to S. Sgt. J. C. Bryant, of Denver, Col., who has been cooking out here quite a while . . . I asked him if this jungle racket bored him and he laughed and said: "I am getting so I have to speak up when I talk to myself."

Frank Robertson, International News Service war correspondent, has been helping gather this trivia . . . It's nice to have someone to share the blame. . . . We've typed this stuff in planes, on tree stumps and any place where we could set a typewriter up.

I got into a dice game the other night with some infantry boys . . . I'm glad the Army is supplying transportation home . . . Check with you later . . . I've got to talk to the natives here again . . . They can't understand why I want them to brush their teeth three times a day . . . But we know, don't we?

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Prosecuting Attorney Forgets to Build

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Except for a few clever subtleties, Gov. Dewey's opening speech of the presidential campaign might well fall in the category of a schoolboy's essay written by an older sophomoric brother in college.

For constructiveness it had absolutely nothing in it to recommend it to the American people.

Judging from this initial effort, the Dewey campaign strategy will be to carry the fight to an administration, which, he says, "was conceived in defeatism, which failed for eight straight years to restore our domestic economy, which has been the most wasteful, extravagant and incompetent administration in the history of the nation and, worst of all, one which has lost faith in itself and the American people."

Note the terms "defeatism," "incompetent," and "lost faith." They constitute the theme song of the Philadelphia address.

With a typical prosecuting attorney's complex, Gov. Dewey confined himself to an indictment of the Roosevelt administration almost in toto without for a moment offering any program as a solution to the many fictional evils he complains of.

Does He Know? He did promise that in subsequent speeches he will move on to the domestic issues, discussing such things as tax policies, regulatory policies, labor policies, small business, and the question of bureaucratic regulation of "every detail of the lives of our people"—the latter a gross exaggeration, of course.

Perhaps it is unfair to judge him finally until he has had an opportunity to express himself more fully on these subjects. Certainly, his foreign policy speech continued his line of complaining without offering any suggestions of his own.

As one staunch Republican newspaper—the Washington Star—has stated editorially, "If the Republicans hope to win this election that plan (Dewey's program) must consist of more than vague generalities and criticism of the New Deal," such as marked the Philadelphia address.

The subtleties of the opening Dewey campaign speech lay in the emphasis he placed on two terms, "defeatism" and the "New Deal." He used the first four times directly and by implication nine times additionally.

Likewise, he repeated the phrase "New Deal" some 14 times, although as the President has said and as every observer knows, the New Deal has been dead for these past four years, except for the permanent reforms accomplished in its name.

Dewey, of course, was using the phrase as a term of disparagement. But it was rather amusing to hear him say in the same breath:

"Of course, we need security regulation. Of course, we need bank deposit insurance. Of course, we need price support for agriculture. Of course, the farmers of the country cannot be left to the hazards of a world price while they buy their goods on an American price. Of course, we need unemployment insurance and old age pensions and also relief whenever there are not enough jobs. Of course, the rights of labor to organize and bargain collectively are fundamental."

Borrowed All The amusing part of it all is that it just so happens that the very things enumerated by Dewey in the foregoing paragraph constitute the essence and the substance of the New Deal as it was originally conceived.

Dewey accepts the substance, but discards the name. It's like enjoying a can of tomatoes and then repudiating the brand.

The most amateurish part of his Philadelphia performance, however, was in harping on the word "defeatism" in reference to the aims and achievements of the Roosevelt administration.

The administration was "conceived in defeatism," he said. It believes in a "defeatist philosophy." It represents "a tired and quarrelsome defeatism," and, to quote one of his sentences intact: "I am deeply interested in bringing a final end to the defeatism and failure of this administration in its domestic policies."

It is difficult to understand what Gov. Dewey means by the use of the term. Certainly the definition given by Webster does not permit the use of the word in connection with the aims and accomplishments of the administration.

But whatever he means it most assuredly will be difficult to convince the American people that there is anything defeatist about an administration which has tackled the greatest war problem in all history with a success that has astounded the world.

Gov. Dewey will have to do better than this or he may lose Maine and Vermont in November.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Oblivion May Come

It is hard to believe that a man so obscure and harmless at his death as Bishop James Cannon Jr. ever could have been the object of such wide and hearty hatred as beat against this testy little church-politician who, in the days of prohibition, possessed a political influence comparable to that of Sidney Hillman at this hour or of John L. Lewis eight years ago. He was no more winsome than these successors to unofficial power in the land and, just as Lewis and Hillman have aroused bitter opposition to their program, so Bishop Cannon, in the twenties, by his ruthless methods and fanaticism, helped to bring about repeal.

Possibly, 12 years hence, which is about the span of the old bishop's term in the darkness after his fall, Lewis and Hillman, too, will be forgotten and their excesses forgiven. Once a tyrant is broken, people humiliate him the more if they treat him kindly, a way of showing that he is no longer important enough to be hated.

There was a demonstration of this at the democratic convention in Philadelphia in 1936.

Henry Mencken was there, who in the hilarious years of prohibition, had written with rapturous contempt about the old man and all that he represented. And there, one day, among the moist and heaving politicians, oblivious of the bawling of the orator of the moment, stood Henry and the bishop, gossiping like a pair of old classmates.

"The old gentleman is through," Mr. Mencken said, not realizing, apparently, that when repeal came, he himself, was left without a cause. From that point on he wrote less and less and today he is seldom heard except in books of gloriously ribald memories.

It was a wonderful fight while it lasted, but the present one is more important and the enmities are more real. Bishop Cannon was a political boss, to be sure, who didn't bother to keep his punches up, but, after all, there were plenty of men to thwart his law for the high wages of an amiable sin, and, after a short time, the people had all they wanted to drink. These later conspirators, however, have undertaken to remodel the very form of the American government and rule the lives of men and there has been blood on the streets of American cities where they have tried to impose their will.

The bishop was a cunning campaigner who didn't hestitate to use his cloth to unfair advantages so that opponents had to be subtle lest they seem to attack his church in attacking him. The unioneers of the new crusade have constantly held themselves forth as the very personification of labor and those who fight them are constantly accused of hostility to the worker. The bishop got away with this for a time but his methods became so notorious and his private business operations so worldly, not to say sordid, that presently he stood, in a manner of speaking, unfrocked in his political personality. Outside the affairs of his church he was just another politician and on his own. So, too, Hillman has been losing the protection of the union label in his politics and, today, few native American skilled workmen would regard an attack on his audacious plans as an attask on their interests.

Rather oddly, I enjoy the personal friendship of Jimmy Petrillo, of the musicians' union, with whom one night, like Mencken and the bishop, I was found in flagrant association at a night club. When I see Mr. Petrillo I urge him on to further outrages, to silence high school bands and to demand prohibitive fees for his gracious permission for amateurs to play at Army entertainments, feeling that the way to cure the evil is to make it unbearable. I tell him the law is with him and beg him to take entire advantage of it.

Possibly, when unionism comes under decent restraints, for the profit and comfort of the workers and the whole community, like Mencken after repeal, I will find myself a crusader without a cause and, at some future political convention, exchange pleasant remarks with a deposed, discredited and harmless obscurity remembered only by old-timers as Sidney Hillman, of the Political Action Committee.

"Dewey fires opening guns of campaign at Philadelphia."—News item.

Of all the guns we hate the worst, wherever they are fired,
Are guns the politicians use'. . . they make us very tired—
The ammunition which they shoot is never modern stuff
It's just the same old apple-sauce, the same old putrid guff,
Their powder is calumny and their bullets are of smears
And yet it seems effective for it's used throughout the years.
The big ones and the little ones, the statesman and the punk
Dish out with regularity the old and molded bunk
And yet the crowds still listen with collective mouths agape
With as little comprehension as a pre-historic ape.
The speaker stops to catch his breath and rest a little spell
And that's the cue for all the crowd to burst into a yell—
They don't know what they're shouting for, but think it must be good
Because it is so nebulous it can't be understood.
We, too, have listened to them since we were a little sprout
But if they taught us anything nobody's found it out,
For, as old Omar used to say, while sewing on his tent,
We evermore came out the door as dumb as when we went.
For all the speeches we have heard, we still are in the dark
And waiting for some one of them to make a kind remark—
So we keep on listening to them hoping for some year of grace
When we'll see an opening gun explode right in the speaker's face.

CELESTINE SIBLEY

Antique Hunters Go Too Far for Stella

ALFORD, Fla.—(By Mail)—Folks here in Alford are inclined, generally speaking, to live and let live. If there's anything a man is entitled to, they feel, it's his own opinion. Even the old gentleman who used to take his shotgun down to the new ground and spend the day firing at the stumps under the impression they were Yankees readying for an attack, might have had something to be said on his side, his neighbors held. At least, none of them would have disagreed with him to the extent of calling the authorities at the state insane asylum at Chattahoochee. (His own folks did that when he ran out of ammunition and started to cut off the Yankees' retreat by setting fire to a field of dry fodder.)

But if there ever was a time when most of the citizens of Alford had to lean over backwards to "see the other feller's side" it was when the antique hunters came to town.

Cousin Stella remembers it well. And to this day she alternates between amusement, indignation and blank amazement in telling about it.

What reminded her of it was the stereoscope that used to sit on the parlor table near the morning glory-shaped horn of the Edison talking machine. Twenty years ago it was standard Sunday afternoon amusement for visiting nieces and nephews. Between changing the cylinder records of "Ring the Bells of Heaven" (complete with chimes) and a sentimental song about a lady who lost her little baby and was inviting the child across the street to "come over to my house and play that you're my little girl," you could make faces at your reflected self in the nickel-plated base of the gas lamp or view the sinking of the Maine through the stereoscope.

The nickel-plated lamp, now electrified, is still around, but both the Edison talking machine and the stereoscope were missing.

Knowing Cousin Ella's admiration for such modern innovations as indoor plumbing, Raymond Gram Swing and "blonde mahogany" furniture, we feared our old friends against Sunday afternoon gloom had been banished forever.

"Heavens, no," said Aunt Stella, delving into a cupboard. "At least I still have the stereoscope. I'm not sure what happened to the talking machine since we got the radio—but I still enjoy looking at these old pictures. Look, here's Teddy Roosevelt—and isn't this sweet? It's always been my favorite!"

Before eyes shaded by the plush-rimmed glass she pushed a yellowed card showing a Victorian mother, obviously up at night examining with grave concern her chubby infant, while a father with droopy black moustache and middle-parted hair, remarked, "Colic again? Sheer temper, I venture to say!"

"I keep these things hidden until some of the family comes," Cousin Stella was saying. "I've had to since 1939 when those antique hunters were about. You never saw such people!"

As she talked Cousin Stella kept feeding cards to the stereoscope and beloved old scenes sprang again into wonderful three-dimensional life.

"At first it was kind of funny," she said. "Those antique people visited all the colored homes in town and bought up vases and old bureaus and junk that white folks had given the darkies years ago. Then they started on this side of town.

The way they got in this house the first time was pretty slick. Some ladies drove up in a car while ma was training that yellow running rose there at the end of the gallery. You know how proud she was of that. Well, they admired it a lot and finally asked her for a cutting. Of course, the only thing ma enjoyed more than growing flowers was giving 'em away and she invited the ladies in and before you knew it they were sitting in the front room and she was telling all about rooting marchalniel roses and how the six-colored azalea we bought in Mobile turned out to be pure white and all. And while she was talking they were looking around.

"They spotted the stereoscope and seemed to enjoy the pictures but I think what really set them off was the way ma let them have that old blue glass butter dish with the hen on it. She wanted to give it to them and when one of them insisted on paying her 50 cents she kept trying to give it back. She followed them all the way out to the car to tell them that she'd been using the dish 30 or 40 years and wanted to give it away. Of course that made them think she didn't know the value of old things and after that—well you couldn't open the gate without letting in an antique hunter."

Cousin Stella was downright embarrassed for some of them. They'd buy anything and anybody's possessions seemed fair game. Old chairs and beds, clocks that would not run, every kind of dish and glass that was ever thought of. Even old bottles and crocks and mourstache cups.

"There's a collector for everything on earth," Cousin Stella said solemnly. "Did you ever hear of anybody gadding about the country buying up sad irons to hang up in their house—just to look at? Or a coffee mill to plant flowers in?

"And that's not all," she lowered her voice carefully and looked around to be sure that there were no menfolks within earshot, "you know the washstand sets we used to have in all the bedrooms? When I was a bride no girl was really properly married unless she had a handsome china bowl and pitcher set for the washstand with a soap dish and slop jar to match and a little pitcher for hot water. Mine," she went on dreamily, "had big red chrysanthemums painted on the side."

"Well," she weighed her words carefully and her face grew pink with the effort of handling a difficult subject delicately, "do you know what one of those antique collectors wanted to do? She wanted to buy my old washstand set so she could fill the jar with flowers and set it in front of the fireplace in her parlor!"

The crudity of that suggestion finished Cousin Stella—and all her neighbors—with antique collectors. They will keep their old things from now on to be handed down as usual from mother to daughter and father to son. The old clock out in the barn looks a little peculiar since a local handyman started to repair its face and exhausted his knowledge of Roman numerals at III, carrying on from that in Arabic. But the spinning wheel still works—and who can tell when there might be a breakdown in the textile industry and some granddaughter, like many grandmothers before her, will have to spin the threads from which her family's clothes are woven?

At least that's Cousin Stella's excuse for keeping it. She'd hate to see some antique collector turn it into an ashtray or portable cocktail server.

JOSEPH MORTON

How Mihai and Helen Tormented Germans

(AP Correspondent Joseph Morton transmitted on Saturday one of the great exclusive stories of the war, the account of how young King Mihai of Romania overthrew the German-dominated dictatorship of his country. This dispatch tells how he obtained the original story, with further details on the King's relations with Marshal Antonescu, the man he ousted.)

BUCHAREST, Sept. 7.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Romania's new national hero sat down with a pen and a sheet of blue note paper.

"I wonder if the world will realize," he wrote, "how difficult it was to win the battle by which Romania regained her liberty. We had to fight force far superior in both number and armament spread all over the country. But we succeeded through great sacrifice to attain our goal. My people have successfully come through one of their hardest trials, thus proving to all that they knew how to fight."

Mihai was appraising the August coup d'etat which put his country on the side of the Allies and brought about the destruction or capture of 38 German divisions.

His simple declaration, he said, constituted a message he wanted to send to the people of America and Great Britain. It was handed to this correspondent after a visit of some 20 hours at a small secluded villa many miles from the capital where the king and Queen Mother Helen were living until the country's peace was arranged.

Unaware that the royal family had left Bucharest, I had asked for an audience, hoping, if fortunate, to be granted 15 minutes.

I was invited, instead, to come to the country and spend the night.

REPORTER GETS PLANE

A German-made Fieseler-Storch observation plane was placed at my disposal.

Baron Mocsonyi-Styrcea, spirited young marshal of the court, accompanied me.

We took off from Bucharest at dusk, banked to the west and settled down to a height of only 75 feet for a steady grind. Below on the highway to Yugoslavia a long column of Russian troops crept along in low, underslung wagons. Their campfires dotted the wide Romanian landscape.

Late in the evening we spotted a wide, rectangular bonfire. The pilot steered toward it, landing in a field just on the other side. An automobile was waiting, and Ionnitiu, the king's private secretary and closest friend, walked over to greet us.

A few minutes' ride over a rough, poorly kept road brought us to a small village. On the far side we turned into the driveway of a comfortable two-story house. As we got out a young man in a tan waterproof jacket walked toward us leading a police dog.

MAN WAS MIHAI

Ionnitiu touched my elbow. The man was Mihai. Despite four years of abuse at the hands of Marshal Ion Antonescu, a dictator without conscience and sometimes without decency, Mihai appeared remarkably well and fit.

If the tense, historic events of the preceding few days had sobered or changed him he didn't show it. He appeared a keen, friendly young man of 22, gifted with understanding intelligence as well as wide shoulders and six feet of brawn.

"I am very glad you have come," he said.

Queen Helen received us in the drawing room. She wore a light, flowered frock—and had a charming smile.

"We are living very simply here," she said. "I hope you will be comfortable."

We dined almost immediately. I sensed that Styrcea and I had arrived later than anticipated, although nothing was said. The King and queen mother were hungry.

THEY WANTED NEWS

At dinner I, who had come to interview, found the situation reversed. Their majesties were hungry for news, too.

They listened to the BBC twice a day, the queen said, despite the Gestapo and Antonescu's secret police. But the BBC hadn't told them everything. They wanted to know a lot more.

Queen Helen was anxious about Florence, the beautiful Italian city which had been her home during 11 years of exile. Had it been damaged? The King was interested in American politics. What was Sen. Truman's background?

Both were curious about food rationing in America, about the B-29 Superfortresses, about the newest American movies—"we miss them so very much"—and naturally about when the war would end.

They asked many questions about the American prisoners evacuated from Romania—many of whom they had visited.

QUEEN VISITS FLIERS

I got the impression that doing things for the fliers who were shot down over Ploesti had become a royal project. The prison camp at Timis, near Brasov, was but a few minutes drive from their summer home, the queen said, and both she and Mihai had gone over shortly after the first airmen arrived.

Antonescu was furious. When it became known that the King had shaken hands with them the German minister, Baron Manfred von Killinger, entered a formal protest.

For her part the Queen told both to go jump in the lake. As the president of the Romanian Red Cross she was only doing her duty. Thereafter she did everything possible to make the men in the camps as comfortable as possible.

Over coffee, Styrcea reported on events in the capital. He told of Russian troops, of armistice negotiations, and of preparations for war against Hungary in Transylvania.

FORMALITY ABSENT

Both the King and his mother listened carefully, asking many questions. In a few cases they solicited my advice.

I was impressed by the absence of formality, by the simplicity and good-fellowship in this evening at home with the royal family.

We retired at midnight, the baron to a couch in the drawing room and I to a daybed in the adjacent study.

In his second-floor bedroom the King, before retiring, drafted his brief declaration to the people of the United States and Britain.

In the morning Styrcea, who arose before I did, handed me a blue dressing gown and said, "the King is shaving now, so you will have to wait a few minutes."

Mihai came down to breakfast at 9:30 and the Queen at 10. We sat at the table until noon. Bit by bit I learned more of life at the palace, focal point of four years of pro-Allied intrigue.

Much information about Antonescu's secret police had come to light. Its pipelines reached into the palace itself. Styrcea mentioned a certain name.

"I never did trust her," said Queen Helen. "I was sure of it all along."

ANTONESCU "DIRTY"

Nothing that Antonescu had done would surprise me, the King commented.

"That man hated me," he exclaimed. "I don't think he passed up a single chance to play me a dirty trick. He spied on me, lied to me and I never have been happier than the night we kicked him out."

Mihai spoke slowly, occasionally in French but usually in flawless English, which, at his mother's injunction, has been the official court language, despite Antonescu's German.

Use of English at court distressed Antonescu deeply, the Queen said, and he often was outspoken in his wrath.

One one occasion Antonescu's abuse aroused her more than usual and she stood up, fumbling in her handbag.

The marshal, startled, stepped away from her as the Queen found the pistol she had been seeking and pointed it at him. Then she, too, became startled at her own action and put it away.

JEEP ANGERS NAZI

Antonescu was angry also when Mihai mysteriously acquired an American jeep and insisted on driving it in public. He reprimanded the King, who said he wanted an entire fleet of them once the Germans were gone.

Other sore points were English magazines and American cigarets which kept bobbing up at the palace. The latter came via Lisbon, the Queen said, and were frightfully expensive, even for royalty.

After the long talk at breakfast we played table tennis on the front terrace, discussed airplanes and romped with the King's dog, an animal he said he had "swiped" from the Gestapo.

Then we had lunch. Afterward, standing on the terrace, Mihai described slowly and in detail his arrest of Antonescu, his final audience with Von Killinger, his long automobile dash through the German lines, and other historic events of August 23 so that I might record them accurately for dispatch to America.

"You have a good story for Hollywood," the King chuckled. "Maybe they'll let my mother and me come over to be technical advisers. Its better than a lot of your gangster movies."

The King accompanied the baron and me back to the plane late in the afternoon. We went for a 10-minute spin before saying goodbye. Bucharest-bound, I added up what I had seen and heard in 20 hours and arrived at this:

"There's a lot to being a King. Mihai really is much older than his 22 years. He seems to have what it takes."

Belgium Went Wild When Allies Entered

WITH UNITED STATES ARMOR NEAR LIEGE, Belgium, Sept. 7.—(By Wireless)—(Delayed)—It seems to be as true in Belgium as in France that there is such a thing as literally going crazy with joy. Tanks do it. Tanks are something the people of Europe are able to understand. Apparently since the German blitz in 1940 ground them under they have been awaiting our tanks.

And now as our tanks come jouncing along—faceless things with their turrets stuck up out of their middle, like heads, and their guns bulging forward, like noses, their tracks squeaking and clacking and they themselves blowing a smell and blowing hot blasting noises backward and forward and all around them like animals in a grovel of anticipation—they take the minds of all the people along with them and make them momentarily like themselves. It isn't a pretty sight, but it is what the Germans brought on themselves.

The main road leading into Andenne on the way toward Liege dips down slightly before the town, then disappears under an avenue of trees. The trail of a retreating German column was being swallowed up by the trees as the head of our column rounded a curve to the top of the rise. The last rattle on the German tail was an antitank gun being dragged along by a motor vehicle. It was just short of the cover of the trees, and our tanks had only seconds in which to see it before it would disappear. But our men saw it and opened fire, racing on as they fired.

One shell skidded over the gun, hit the towing vehicle and picked it up and tore it loose from its gun and blew it out of the road onto the sidewalks. Our tanks were moving so fast in pursuit of the German column that the German gun was still rolling slowly on its own momentum when they passed it.

The streets of Andenne were empty as the Germans passed through, but as soon as sounds of firing started the people began coming out of their houses and began running wildly toward the main street where our column was moving.

They came first in ones and twos, then in larger and larger groups—whole families of them, the men pulling their women to make them run faster and the women pulling their children or sweeping up the children and carrying them in their arms as they ran. They ran really wildly. They ran with a desperateness of lunatic joy, and as our tanks jounced down the main street all the town's side streets could be seen filling with people, flowing crazily with them as if they were sparks blowing from some fire burning back there.

There had been three Germans riding on that gun knocked out on our way in. Two had been killed instantly and one was fatally wounded along the whole length of his left side, including his head. A jeep pulled out of the tank column and a couple of Yanks took the three bodies and put them on the sidewalk so they would not be run over by our tanks. They threw blankets over the dead men and laid the wounded man face up where our medics would be sure to see him. Then they raced on again to take their place in the column.

The dying German was apparently in his early thirties. He was a large, ponderous-seeming man with a prosperous look to his face.

The people racing from the side streets to cheer the Americans began jostling one another for front-row places and began spreading up and down the main street until they packed the whole length of it. They came with flowers, cakes, cognac, beer, wine and even waffles, and they cheered and clapped and stamped themselves into exhaustion. Nobody paid any attention to the dead and dying Germans. The German motor vehicle which had been towing the gun was still burning so the crowd, even in its jostle for front-row places along the main street, kept the space around it clear, but there wasn't much clear space around the dying German and the blood of him, and the last sounds he heard were the cheers for those who killed him. His face twitched now and then and his final move in life was to take his arm out of his blood on the sidewalk and place it on his chest, as if giving himself absolution.

Our column jounced on to Huy. The main road here curls around the edge of the town, and Jack Belden, of Life Magazine, and I pulled away from the head of the column to go into the town to see what was going on there. An old man threw his arms around me and kissed me and held on to me tremblingly as he began to weep into my face. Flowers pelted down on us, a whole shower of them.

There was so much noise of joy I could hear only dimly the sounds of firing, although a machinegun was working very close to us and rifles were answering. A man was trying to tell me the Rexist chief of police had been taken prisoner and I was trying to watch Belgian resistance groups pulling German SS soldiers from houses but the kisses of the women and women pulling at me and Belden for souvenirs and pelting us with flowers kept interfering.

Belden and I have a very rank battlefield smell by now. We are very tired and, like battered, old socks, are kept standing up straight only by our own smell. But nobody paid any attention to the Germans being pulled out of houses and walked through crowds around us to a prison or to the sounds of Germans being killed and the killing Belgian resistance men.

Ultimately the man took us to the city hall to see the police chief. The whole square in front of the city hall was jammed with people but the long steps up to the building were kept free by the police and we got to the quiet and the comparative emptiness there and began to breathe more easily.

"Where's the police chief?" I asked.

"He has just been killed," an official shouted.

A priest pulled my arm and turned me toward him. "How was he killed?" I shouted over my shoulder and heard the priest scream at me in French: "I speak English. Listen to me. I speak English."

"One moment, please," I said to the priest and turned back to the official and said, "But how? That's the point. How was he killed? Who killed him and how and why?"

"He was killed dead," the official shouted crazily. There was a light like a fire in his eyes and in his whole face. "Killed! Killed!" he screamed.

The priest kept pulling at me all the time, shouting in French, "I speak English. Listen to me! I speak English."

Finally, I was sure nobody would ever care to investigate who killed the chief of police, or who killed anybody, and I turned back to the priest and said in French, "All right, go ahead and speak your English. I speak English, too."

"Listen to me!" shouted the priest into my face in German. "I speak English!" Then he shouted in German, "I come from near Sedan. I was brought here as a hostage and I am just now free."

"That's German, not English!" I shouted back at him.

"Yes, yes!" he shouted in French. "Listen, I will speak in English." Then he said, again in German, "I was taken here as a hostage from near Sedan—"

A German machine pistol began firing very near the square. I saw the crowd trample itself to get away from there and a man in a white shirt was running, screaming, toward the machinegun and waving a big butcher knife. The priest kept shouting at me in German. There was a fire in him and it was burning his brain so that he did not know what he was saying and it was shining crazily from his eyes and his whole face.

I saw this fire burning all over France wherever our tanks went, and now it is burning all over Belgium. Well, we only lit it. The Nazis supplied the fuel for it, and it will not warm them in their dying days.

MARCH OF DIMES

29 Million Raised for Polio Fight

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said today that in the last 11 years the American people contributed $29,562,742 in the fight against infantile paralysis.

The money was raised for the foundation through the March of Dimes and celebrations of the President's birthday, O'Connor told the annual meeting of the committee. He said $16,000,000 foundation's medical advisory of the total was raised during 1943-44.

"We are now able both to intensify our scientific search for the cure and prevention of the disease, and at the same time to enlarge our field army fighting infantile paralysis," O'Connor said.

During the past six years, he reported, the foundation made 298 grants to 74 institutions involving 114 groups of workers.

O'Connor said that of the total collected in the 11-year period, almost $15,000,000 was left with the counties where the money was raised, an average of $444 per county per year and $160 for each new case reported during the 11 years.

The national foundation received approximately $13,000,000 to conduct programs of scientific research, education and epidemic relief. Of this sum a total of $6,508,475 was allocated for grants in research as follows:

Virus research, $2,053,761; after-effects research, $1,405,292; education, $1,179,215; epidemics, $637,548; Tuskegee Institute, $404,256; Georgia Warm Springs Foundation $825,000.

O'Connor estimated that the national foundation and its chapters had expended more than $1,000,000 up to September 1 on the 1944 epidemic of the disease.

Georgia Guard Seeks Recruits

Capt. A. A. Cranston, of the Georgia State Guard, has issued an appeal for new recruits in Fulton county to enter the Fourth Battalion.

Initiating the campaign yesterday, Capt. Cranston said that all men between the ages of 17 and 60 would be accepted. He also said that the State Guard would like to have businessmen in the organization for drill one night each week.

Those interested may receive further information at the Georgia State Guard headquarters, 226 Arcade building.

Atlantan Freed From Nazi Prison

An Atlanta wife had good news yesterday when she received a letter from her husband, Pvt. George W. Huff, 19, stating that he has been released from a German prison camp in France and is now back with American forces.

A paratrooper, who was captured by the Nazis on D-Day, he was held until recently, said his wife, Mrs. Thelma Huff.

Mrs. Huff, who lives at 393 Hood street, S. W., said that Pvt. Huff wrote the letter on captured German stationery.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY

FELT LIKE HER NERVES STAYED ON EDGE, AND EATING WAS A TASK

Retonga Again Proves Merit by Bringing Prompt Relief to Well-Known Resident. Is Able to Do Her Housework Again.

Gratefully giving Retonga full credit for their regained strength, often after years of suffering, well-known men and women throughout this section are praising this famous medicine for promptly relieving their harassing distress from indigestion, nervousness, weak, rundown feeling, muscular pains, loss of appetite, weight, and strength, and similar debilitating symptoms due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, constipation, and need of Vitamin B-1 for digestion, nerves, and strength. For instance, Mrs. W. J. Payne, Route 1, Smyrna, Ga., a staunch member of the Baptist church and whose husband holds a responsible position with a nationally known corporation happily states:

"Retonga proved to be exactly the medicine I needed. For several months I felt so badly rundown and weak that I hardly knew which way to turn. My appetite was so poor that eating was a task instead of a pleasure, and what little I did force down seemed to give me no strength. I felt like my nerves stayed at the breaking point, and I rarely ever slept more than a few hours. My strength was at such low ebb I had to give up doing my housework and it looked like nothing I tried did me any good.

"It was a lucky day when I started on Retonga for within a week it gave me such grand relief I began to sleep soundly and eat much better. Within a couple of weeks I had regained so much strength that I was again doing my housework. My appetite is now normal and I enjoy every meal. My nerves are steady as can be. I was badly troubled with sluggish elimination, too, but that trouble has also been relieved. It is a pleasure to tell others about Retonga for it has saved me lots of suffering and money."

Scores of your neighbors and friends are praising Retonga. Accept no substitute. The Retonga representative at the Square Deal Drug Store, 10 N. Broad St., opposite The Arcade, will gladly tell you all about this noted medicine without obligation.—(adv.)

MRS. JULIAN SPECTOR.

Miss Ruth Krengel Weds Mr. Spector

The marriage of Miss Ruth Krengel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Krengel, of Chicago, and Julian Spector, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spector, of Atlanta, was recently solemnized at the Belden-Statford hotel in Chicago. Dr. Jacob Singer officiated. A stringed ensemble provided the music.

Usher-groomsmen were Theodore Krengel, brother of the bride, of Chicago, and J. Bernard Spector, brother of the groom, of Atlanta. Abe I. Levetan, of Atlanta, served as best man.

Miss Sylvia Piassick, of Atlanta, and Miss Ethel Eisen, of Chicago, were bridesmaids. They were gowned in yellow marquisette. They wore white, starched lace hats, and carried bouquets of yellow daisies and purple irises, tied with yellow taffeta bows.

Mrs. Sidney Krengel, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gray crepe gown, trimmed with white lace and she carried yellow roses. Her hat was also of white starched lace.

Little Miss Gloria Greenberg, of Atlanta, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a purple taffeta dress, and carried a miniature basket filled with yellow daisies and roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white organdy, fashioned with short, puffed sleeves, and a sweetheart neckline. Her veil of illusion tulle was attached to a coronet of lace by orange blossoms. She carried a white prayer book marked with a purple-throated white orchid, and showered with orange blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. David Krengel entertained at a reception, following the ceremony in the gold room of the Belden-Stratford hotel.

After a wedding trip to Lake Garth, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Spector will reside in Chicago.

Atlanta guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spector, J. Bernard Spector, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Levitt, Mrs. Harold A. Greenberg, Miss Gloria Greenberg, Mrs. Sarah Goldbergh, Mrs. Sam Novak, Mr. Abe L. Levetan and Miss Sylvia Piassick.

Lady-Like Clothes Require Improvement in Your Manners

By WINIFRED WARE.

Soft, feminine, lady-like clothes surely are on their way in. Long draped skirts, hats with ostrich plumes, jeweled hat pins, these, and other examples of the prevailing fashions of 1914 seem destined to play a return engagement. But what of our ladylike manners to go with these clothes? I can't see a "lady" yanking her girdle in public or adjusting her baggy stockings or running a comb through her locks at the dinner table, as I have seen, and recently. Or declining a gentleman's offer of a seat just vacated to his complete amazement and discomfiture, with the silly response: "Oh, no, (no "thank you" was included) I like to stand up." I know she didn't for she was at least 40, and I think she was trying to impress him and those around her with her youthful energy and well being. But the net result was to send shivers up and down the spine of all women within hearing, as they saw one of the few remaining gentlemen embarrassed and having to pull down his standards, take the seat proffered, leaving the woman towering triumphantly above him. You could see how it hurt him to do it, and you'd know that though from his mother's knee he was taught to be courteous and to show deference to women, he will hesitate before offering another woman a seat on the trolley.

These and other signs of a lapse in manners one observes each time we go out. The pay-off I think was an experience on the street car on my way in this morning. Above the noise of the clanging, rumbling trolley I kept hearing an uncertain, ageing voice humming some popular tune. That was bad, but not too bad. But between verses there was a clicking sound, and every now and then a sucking sound. Not being able to believe one human being made all those different noises I left off my concentrated thinking and listened. The humming and clicking and sucking sounds went on block after block. After a while under the pretext of looking longer at a window we were passing I stole a tiny backward look at the woman to see if she were making all those noises herself or if she were carrying snakes. But that ever so casual peek over my shoulder was my undoing; she pounced upon me with conversation:

"Ain't it just turrible to see a woman downtown on a day like this without any coat on; without even a umbrella?" They jes look awful, don't they?" This over my shoulder as if we were life-long friends. And without giving me a moment to reply she went on:

"Look at that one carryin' a suitcase," she said, pointing one out. "She looks like she's freezing." (The official temperature was at least 70.) "She oughta have a coat. I'm freezing, and I've got on all I've got." She went into details, with fur collar, galoshes, etc.

Believe me I never was able to get in a word, and we came to a corner where she got off, beginning once again the alternating humming, clicking and teeth sucking sounds. Then I got a good look at her. She wasn't bad looking; her clothes were fairly well chosen and she'd have been quite all right except for her manners. The worst thing about them was they're apt to be contagious, for all day I've been practicing to see if I could make that funny hissing sound with my teeth.

Skirts and sweaters are first loves of the schoolgirl. A wood-sy green herringbone tweed makes the skirt pictured. Pressed pleats give fullness in front and back. The cardigan is canary yellow in a 100 per cent Bermuda wool knit. The skirt is $8.98; sweater, $8.98. Miss Jean Anne Horne is the model. For further information, call Winifred Ware, Fashion Editor.

Adults and Growing Children Need a Wholesome Breakfast

By SALLY SAVER.

Now that the children are back in school and cool, fresh mornings have a tinge of autumn, it is time to give some thought to breakfasts. In many homes this is a neglected meal and for the mistaken idea that it isn't important what one eats for breakfast, if indeed, one eats anything at all. Many surveys and checkups have been made concerning breakfast eating habits and it has been established that both children and grown people who do good work must have a good breakfast. Otherwise there is a great lag in energy during the morning hours when bodies and minds should be at their best.

Often, too, it has been found that school children do not eat breakfast for the simple reason that the hurry and bustle around the house plus the fear of being late for school makes them tense and they cannot eat. To help these school-going young Americans attain maximum growth, and to keep the war workers well and on the job, let's check up on our breakfasts and if necessary make a new breakfast pattern beginning this first fall month. Let's wake the children 15 minutes earlier, if necessary and try to avoid that mad morning rush that upsets everybody's nerves, even your own, and gets the day off to a poor start.

A good breakfast like any other good meal should have balance and appetite appeal. There should always be fruit in the breakfast menu. Yet a survey of war workers made by the War Food Administration in 48 states, found that 45 per cent of the workers had no fruit at all during the day, and many arrived for work without any breakfast at all! September is National Nutrition Month, time to check up on poor eating habits and correct them.

If the suggested breakfast menus seem unusually hearty to you, please remember that a growing child must get almost one-third of his daily food needs at breakfast, or he doesn't get them at all.

Reducer's Menu Should Contain Adequate Amount of Basic Food

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

There are many ways of going at this business of reducing. One can tackle it with grim determination and a starvation diet, hate every minute of it and think mostly of how they're going to eat afterwards! That, I am afraid, is the usual method.

Then there is the martyr school. So many overweights find that what they like is everything that is fattening, quite often their husbands are tall and thin and can eat everything. It's just not fair. That querulous slant makes everyone tired of their diet and is probably responsible for the saying, "Since my wife is on a diet, home isn't home any more."

But every woman loves a bargain and it's a help in losing weight. So put it up to yourself that "If I take off 25 pounds, I can have a complete new outfit." Between now and then, don't buy a thing—not even as much as a new slip because with 25 pounds off you will be two sizes smaller. Keep your mind on the new dress—maybe a red one. Whenever a piece of cake tempts you, think of being able to slip into a size 16. Then you won't even want cake.

But whatever the system, let it be gay. Make a sort of game of it, a calorie game. Instead of concentrating on the long list of things not included in the diet, think of all the things you can eat and still lose two pounds a week.

It is all done, of course, on a nutritionally perfect diet. Don't expect to keep gay on any other kind. The menus must contain adequate amounts of the seven basic foods, all of which can be kept within 1,000 calories a day, and on that number two and sometimes three pounds a week can be clipped off. Here's the diet: Three vegetables, always one green leafy or yellow, and never more than one high-starch vegetable like corn, lima beans or potatoes; three fruit, one either oranges or grapefruit or the juice; lean meat, a liberal serving; an egg (not fried); a glass of skim milk or buttermilk; three thin slices of whole grain bread thinly buttered. What between meals? Water—plenty of water!

When you feel so fine—as you do on this diet—it's no trouble to do a few stretchbends so as to lose in the right places. Exercise is really a pleasure for it increases the feeling of well-being as the waist measure is decreased.

And best of all, this protective plan of slimming has lasting effects. You are, without much effort, changing to slimmer food habits. Eating to reduce leads to eating to keep slim. Cheerio!

Menus are already planned in the "Victory Reducing Diet." Send large stamped return envelope for it. Please inclose three cents in stamps or coin to cover cost of handling.

Henry-Hubert

J. M. Henry announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Lydia Agnes Henry, to Pfc. Frank B. Hubert, son of Mrs. Mary Hubert, of St. Paul, Minn. The wedding was solemnized September 9 at the post chapel, Lawson General Hospital. Rev. Joseph Tuite, Catholic chaplain performed the ceremony.

The WORRY CLINIC

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

No Scientist Shocked by Facts

(Which educational agency do you think is the most progressive—our schools, churches, magazines, radio or newspapers? Read my answer today. I have plenty of specific facts to corroborate my stand.)

CASE D-250: Dr. Arnold Gesell, aged 64, is director of the Child Development Clinic at Yale University.

He went to Washington, D. C., a few months ago to attend a senate subcommittee hearing on the matter of juvenile delinquency.

"Improved and increased sex education among young people is the best way to combat juvenile delinquency," was the consensus of the child guidance experts there assembled.

"Our culture has been squeamish and evasive," stated Dr. Gesell, "with respect to the most fundamental of all human responsibilities—the begetting and rearing of children."

PAPERS MOST PROGRESSIVE

In the event some of you think I am exaggerating in my praise of the newspaper's foresight and liberality, ask your modern youth where they are gaining their scientific facts about sex?

And you married folks might inquire where you are obtaining your knowledge about marital technique, pregnancy, the "rhythm theory," menopausal complexes and the like.

Did your local schools furnish these facts? Or have you obtained them in the colleges? How about your churches?

From three per cent to five per cent of your readers write to me each year for bulletins and psychological charts. Several newspapers reached a seven per cent mail influx to this column in 1943.

And more than half the mail pertains to sex problems, either of children or adults, because your readers haven't found adequate answers elsewhere in your home communities!

SCIENTISTS NOT SHOCKED

No true scientist is ever "shocked" by knowledge. Facts do not upset the equanimity of any logical thinker.

Only the prudish and hypocritical, or the educational and religious dictators of thought, are ever shocked by new ideas and scientific truths.

American civilization has now moved along so the man in the street is relatively "shock-proof" in the field of science. Even a trip to the moon will not cause him to indulge in vehement denial. He is at least open-minded or willing to be shown.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Constitution, inclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs, when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

TODAY'S PATTERN

By LILLIAN MAE.

Favorite of the more mature figures, Pattern 4541. Why? Because the flowing princess lines taper the waist and hips, add to your height.

Pattern 4541 comes in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 5-8 yards 35-inch fabric.

Send 20 cents in coins for these patterns to The Atlanta Constitution, Pattern Department, P. O. Box 133, Station 0, New York 11, New York.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—The day does not especially favor new beginnings, if you wish for smooth and steady progress. The day favors dealing with friends, relatives and general business.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—After 11 a. m. active work of all kinds that require energy and enthusiasm, mechanical and industrial affairs, should be put into practice, for you can go forward with full speed to your credit.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—The most important time of the day for taking important action along all lines appears to be after 12:35 noon. An excellent period for constructive work, personal advancement, constructive planning, for future prospects, and interviewing or consulting people in important positions.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—The day favors more attention to necessary affairs and ideas that have been hanging fire for some time. The day favors using diplomacy around older people. The evening favors domestic affairs.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—The morning hours and until 1 p. m. are likely to be filled with petty irritations. This is a time to use caution in travel, communications, in the making of contracts and anything that requires your signature. The remainder of the day you may want to work at full speed and may encounter people who are overbearing. Try and sidetrack them.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—The influences prevailing today do not favor entering into anything that is indefinite, or that is not thoroughly understood, for too much acton or too quick action on your part, may easily bring losses. A good day to be cautious.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—An excellent day for dealing with matters pertaining to the general public, professional people and politics. Some excellent results should be attained today. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 3:30 p. m.

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—The period previous to 2:07 p. m. does not appear to be conducive to pleasant contacts and is likely to bring a feeling of tension, which can result in irritations and disagreements. After 2:07 p. m. favors social contacts with both young and old.

November 22-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—An auspicious day to improve conditions around you and to undertake work of a constructive nature. The entire day favors general business activities, buying and selling, social and domestic interests.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN) An excellent day to attend to personal problems and minor unfinished tasks. Be especially careful of any new proposition offered you today and stifle any tendency towards extravagance.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)—The entire day may be considered favorable with the better part of the day before 3:41 p. m. Appointments, meetings, conferences, public matters, should result in much harmony. The period past 3:41 p. m. favors sticking to routine.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—During the entire day and until 5:07 p. m. financial efforts and actual finances may be wasted if you give in to a feeling of too lavish spending. After 5:07 p. m. favors social affairs.

MY DAY. . . . By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Sunday.—I missed the newspaper notices, on September 1, telling of the death of Dr. E. H. Bennett at the age of 96. Dr. Bennett lived at Lubec, Maine, a small town separated from the island of Campobello by a very short distance of swiftly running water. The "narrows," as it is called, can be crossed in a rowboat, but you must know how to cross it or you will not find yourself landing where you expected to land. Dr. Bennett knew how to cross it in all weathers. He knew the people who lived on lonely islands, on the poor farms, and in the little villages all around him, for he practiced medicine in that area for 66 years.

Born in New Brunswick, Canada, he became an American citizen and was graduated from the Jefferson Medical School, Philadelphia, in 1876. Many a time he went back to Johns Hopkins during the winter months to keep himself up to date. In 1937 he was given the annual award of the Maine Medical Society for "outstanding service as a doctor."

Dr. Bennett was a very great person. There is a slight discrepancy in the newspaper obituaries, for instead of bringing John into the world in March, 1916, he looked after me in August, 1914, when Franklin Jr. was born in Campobello. He had come over many times before that, however, to help me with some of the children's minor ailments, and once when my brother and his friends tried to climb a rock named "The Friar" and fell some distance to the stony beach below, Dr. Bennett cared for them and housed them overnight.

We had few serious illnesses until my husband was stricken with poliomylitis. Dr. Bennett traveled back with us to New York City, and I have never gone to Campobello since, even for a few days, without stopping to see him. I looked upon him as a friend as well as a doctor, and I had the greatest admiration for him. He was calm and philosophical. He lived with people who did not make a fuss about little things. He had been in many a home where one did the best one could with what one had at hand, and he had little patience with anything that was not real, sincere and courageous. His son is following in his footsteps.

Dr. D. F. Bennett has a wonderful heritage, for respect and love followed his father all the days of his life. He cared for my husband's mother the last summer that she was at Campobello, and she had excellent care. If we are fortunate to reside again for any length of time on that beautiful island of Campobello, which I have always loved, I will look forward to renewing my acquaintance with Dr. D. F. Bennett and reminiscing about the virtues of his father.

Sylvan Hills P.-T. A.

The executive committee of the Sylvan Hills P.-T. A. will meet Friday at 10 a. m. in the assembly room.

Dr. Brady

MINERAL OIL

I use mayonnaise and salad dressing made with mineral oil. Now I learn that mineral oil coats the walls of the intestines and prevents absorption of vitamins.
(Mrs. R. L. P.)

Answer—Mineral oil interferes with the absorption of vitamins, minerals and other nutritional essentials. That is, when it is taken in the quantities usually taken as a laxative or "internal lubricant." I doubt whether the quantity you take in such mayonnaise or salad dressing has this effect.

HOPING WE BEAT THE STORK

As Junior is due to arrive in a few days I should like to have a copy of the Brady Baby Book I have seen mentioned in your column. (J. P. P.)

Answer—I am glad to send The Brady Baby Book and Preparing for Maternity with my best wishes to service men or their wives, provided they send stamped envelope bearing the address to which I am to mail the booklets. Others who want the booklets should enclose 10 cents for each booklet and self-addressed stamped envelope.

ON THE AIR

By PAUL JONES

An array of topnotch stars of radio, stage and pictures who are now wearing the khaki of Uncle Sam's Army, will be featured on a coast-to-coast broadcast originating in the studios of WGST at 3 p. m. today.

Among the noted artists, who are stationed at Camp Sibert and who will come to Atlanta especially for this broadcast are Bobby Breen, singing star of radio, and Vic Hyde, the one-man band, and scores of others.

The show will feature comedy and music and the vocalists will be backed up by a band composed of key men taken from the nation's leading orchestras.

Bob Hope, the ski-nosed comic who has just completed his second tour of the fighting fronts and who has recently authored a second book on his travels, will be back on the air tonight with fun for everybody. The show returns at 9 p. m. today over WSB.

The Mystery Theater presents "Give the Guy Rope," a hard-boiled murder mystery of the hard-to-solve variety which will tax the quick wits of Lt. O'Melveney in the NBC presentation of the Cleve F. Adams' thriller at 8 p. m. today over WSB.

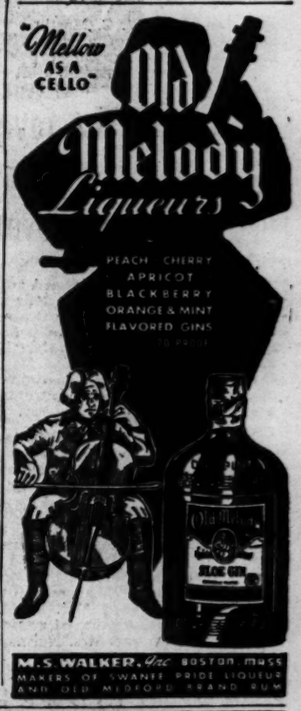

A bank robbery, an unexpected call for help from a stool pigeon and a lovely girl in some mysterious way connected with the disappeaarnce of $200,000 worth of bank bonds, are the strands which the police detective must tie together. O'Melveney cannily feeds out enough line to catch the criminals, but not before he himself is suspected.

"One Man Air Force," the story of Capt. Don S. Gentile, as told to Ira Wolfert, will be heard on "Words at War" today at 8:30 p. m. over WSB. Gerald Holland, of the NBC script department, has adapted the book for radio.

Gentile, the Ohio boy who has shot down more than 30 planes, a record which is tops for any American in two wars, bunked next to War Correspondent Wolfert at a British air base. There he told the author the story of his life. The radio drama emphasizes his boyhood as that of a typical lad who wanted to be a flyer and shows what makes this type of youth equal to and often superior to professional fighters.

Matron Recalls School Days With Ellen Axson Wilson

Among the most interested spectators attending the premiere of "Wilson" tomorrow evening will be Mrs. Harry Schlesinger, beloved Atlantan, who was a schoolmate of the former Ellen Lou Axson, first wife of President Wilson.

As Sarah Ella Cohen, of Rome, Mrs. Schlesinger attended the Rome Female College, where Ellen Lou Axson was also a student. Mrs. Schlesinger recalls that "Ellie Lou," as she was called by her classmates, was very popular and beautiful, and was the most studious member of a class of 40 girls. Her thoughts and activities were more toward her studies and her church work than toward social life, recalls Mrs. Schlesinger, and she was very gifted in art, the subject in which she specialized.

Among Mrs. Schlesinger's college day mementoes is the school annual in which appear individual photographs of each graduate, including one of herself as well as Mrs. Wilson. She also has a friendly note of appreciation from Mrs. Wilson, written when the latter went to Princeton, N. J., to reside at the time her husband became president of the university. Many of her former college mates, including Mrs. Schlesinger, wrote her when her husband was accorded this honor.

Adding to the gaiety prevailing in the Mirador Room Saturday evening was the attractive group of Rome belles forming the party at which Lucy Willingham Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Harvey, of Lindale, was hostess, honoring some close friends who will leave soon for college.

Lucy's guests included Esther Miller, Virginia Barron, Peggy O'Neill, Elizabeth Matthews, Mary Mull, Mary King Battey, Wilann Sheppard and Reba Mebane. The dates included a group of students at Emory and Georgia Tech. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey chaperoned the party.

Pretty brunet Amy Reynolds is the proud possessor of a beautiful engagement ring, steeped in sentiment, because the stones in it were brought home from Burma by Dr. Frank K. Singiser, her fiance's father, when he returned to the States from missionary work in Burma. The ring is old gold, handmade by a craftsman in Pennsylvania. Its center stone is a spinel ruby, surrounded by eight zircons.

Amy's marriage to George M. Singiser, who is with the War Department, will be a social event of the month.

Do you know? . . . That Paul Whiteman's orchestra recently played over the air a new song, titled "Eighty Miles Outside of Atlanta, Ga."? . . . That Robert S. Rogers, director of the High Museum School of Art, has recently returned from St. Simons Island, where he was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Maxwell Berry and where he painted three watercolors, one of the Pink chapel, another of the Berry home, and a sea scene, all done on the Berry estate? . . . That Mrs. Charles Jagels has knitted 20 pairs of white wool bobby socks for her daughter, Joan, to take with her to college? . . . That she has knitted six pairs for Joan's close friend, Jean Fraser, and that she is now starting on 12 pairs for her younger daughter, Nancy? . . . That when Mr. and Mrs. Morgan V. Gress, of Jacksonville, were in the city recently, they were entertained at an informal luncheon at the Capital City Club by Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Haden? . . . That when Josephine Murphey (Mrs. Rowland Jr.) Murray was a little girl, she asked her close friends, Nell Jentzen and Mrs. Eugene Brisbane, to promise that when she married they would be on hand to furnish the music? . . . and that they kept their promise, the former playing the organ and the latter singing at the ceremony which took place at the Sacred Heart church? . . . That H. F. S. Moore's latest mystery novel, "Shed a Bitter Tear," has been printed in a special edition for the Dollar Book-O-Month Club, which has a circulation of 450,000?

Mr., Mrs. Anderson Plan 'Wilson' Party

Among parties planned for the "Wilson" premiere will be that given by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson, of Decatur, who will be hosts at cocktails preceding the movie and supper later.

Guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Everhart, Mr. and Mrs. George Pennington, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hairston, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Williams and Mrs. Fred Babo.

Gladious Society

Georgia Gladious Society will meet today at 2:30 p. m. in Rich's assembly room, fifth floor. Mrs. Edwin R. Haas will speak on "Possibilities of Gladiolus in Flower Arrangement."

Sheltering Arms Group To Address Invitations

A group of members of the Sheltering Arms Day Nursery will meet today at the home of Mrs. James Wilcox on Collier road to address the 600 invitations to the annual luncheon-meeting at the Piedmont Driving Club on September 26. The group includes Mesdames Don Cathcart, Stewart Hammond, Eric Boswell, John S. Whitner Jr., Sharpe Wall, Ralph Paris, W. H. Bowers Jr. and B. H. Oehlert.

Burke-Johnson

Miss Mary Burke, of Atlanta, and Coxswain Joe S. Johnson, of the U. S. Navy, were married September 11 at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will reside in Miami, Fla.

Miss Bryan Weds Austin P. Cook Jr. At Chapel Sept. 23

Miss Eleanor Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Daniel Bryan, and Austin P. Cook Jr., of Shelbyville, Tenn., announce plans for their wedding, which will be an important event of September 23. The ceremony will be solemnized at 4 p. m. in the Little chapel of Glenn Memorial church, with Rev. C. S. Forester, of LaGrange, officiating.

Ushers will be Ben Alexander, of Shelbyville, Tenn., and Atlanta, and Paul Daniel Bryan Jr.

Miss Florrie Bryan, sister of the bride-elect, will be maid of honor and only attendant. Miss Bryan will be given in marriage by her father, Paul Daniel Bryan.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will entertain at a small reception at their home on Cameron court for relatives, close friends and out-of-town guests.

Miss Bryan is being entertained at interesting parties prior to her wedding. Mrs. Polly Titlebaum entertained at a dinner party at her home on Mt. Paran road and Misses Bobbie Suder and Marjorie Goodson gave a kitchen shower at the home of Miss Goodson's sister on Matilda place.

Miss Ann Gellerstedt and Miss Margaret Landers will entertain at a bridge party at the home of Miss Gellerstedt on Oakdale road Friday. Mrs. Forrest Smith and Mrs. Howell Edwards will honor Miss Bryan with a luncheon at the Paradise room September 16.

Mrs. Milton Scott will entertain the wedding party and out-of-town guests at her home in Decatur following the rehearsal on September 22.

Pre-School P.-T. A. Meets

College Street-North Avenue Preschool of Hapeville P.-T. A. will meet at North Avenue school today at 3 p. m. Miss Kathleen Mitchell will speak on preschool work.

Garden Club Meets

The Peachtree Battle Garden Club meets today at 11 a. m. with Mrs. John H. Taylor Jr. on Manor Ridge drive. Boyce Edens, of the Men's Garden Club, will speak.

Azalea Garden Club

The Azalea Garden Club will meet today at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. O. W. Deyerle, 1740 Cornell road. Mrs. Eugene P. McElroy will be co-hostess. Mrs. Ray J. Welsh will speak.

Pvt. Joe B. Whitenton, of Fort Monmouth, N. J., is spending two weeks with his mother, Mrs. E. A. Haralson.

Miss Carmichael To Wed Lt. John Miller on Saturday

Paramount social importance is attached to the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. William Malinous Carmichael of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jane Parks Carmichael, to Lt. John Alexander Miller, U. S. N. R., who returned yesterday from sixteen months of duty with the Navy in the South Pacific. The marriage of the popular young couple will take place at the Westminster Presbyterian church at 5:30 o'clock next Saturday afternoon.

The bride-elect, a lovely representative of prominent southern families, is the granddaughter of Florence Underwood Wyly O'Callaghan and Dennis Joseph O'Callaghan, of Atlanta and Charleston, on her maternal side, and of Robert N. Carmichael and Margaret McElroy, of Newnan, on her paternal side. She is the sister of Mrs. J. Harris Dew, Miss Virginia Carmichael and Lt. William M. Carmichael Jr., who is now stationed at Esler Field, Alexandria, Louisiana.

A petite brunet of unusual beauty and charm, Miss Carmichael is an admired member of Atlanta's younger set. She graduated from Washington Seminary, where she was a member and junior sponsor of the Pi Pi sorority, was a member of the May Court, and served as vice president of the Tallulah Falls circle. She completed her education at National Park College in Washington, D. C., where she was an officer of the junior class and a member of the Alpha Epsilon Pi sorority.

Lt. Miller, like his bride-to-be, is descended from prominent and influential families. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Miller, and the late James Hall Miller, of Atlanta. His maternal grandparents are the late Capt. and Mrs. Sebastian Geisreiter, of Pine Bluff, Ark., Mrs. Geisreiter having been before her marriage Miss Linda Dobyns Chinn, of Mason county, Kentucky. On his paternal side he is the grandson of the late Capt. and Mrs. John Alexander Miller, of Atlanta, formerly of Millersburg, Ky.

The groom-elect is the twin brother of Aviation Cadet Sebastian G. Miller, of the Preflight School, Athens, Ga. His only sister is Mrs. Houghton W. Clarke, of Bronxville, N. Y.

He attended the Cincinnati Country Day School and graduated from Atlanta Boys' High school where he was a member of the Omicron Delta Delta fraternity. He received his bachelor of science and bachelor of architecture degrees at the Georgia School of Technology. At Tech he belonged to the Chi Chi fraternity, the American Institute of Architects, the Georgia Engineering Society, and served as president of the Architectural Society.

Lt. Miller was commissioned an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve and received his indoctrination at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H. He completed his training at Anacostia, D. C.

'Wilson' Premiere Inspires Parties for Visiting Stars

The premiere of the film "Wilson," to be held at the Paramount theater tomorrow evening, has inspired a series of social affairs planned in compliment to the galaxy of movie stars and Hollywood bigwigs who are in the city to attend the brilliant event. The management of the Capital City Club announces a supper-dance to be held following the premiere in its popular Mirador doom. The occasion will assemble club members, the movie stars and visitors from 11:30 to 1:30.

The Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation will entertain at the cocktail hour today in compliment to its stars who are here for the premiere. The affair will be held in the Imperial room of the Biltmore from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. and will be attended by a number of prominent Atlantans invited to meet the stars.

A native Atlantan, Lamar Trotti, of Hollywood, who wrote the "Wilson" script, has arrived with his wife and young daughter, Louise, to attend the premiere. Mr. Trotti is a graduate of the University of Georgia, and the class of 1921 has planned a luncheon in his honor for Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. at the Piedmont hotel. Among the guests to be present from Athens will be Dr. S. V. Sanford, Dr. Harmon Caldwell, Dean John E. Drewry, and William Crane, alumni secretary.

The premiere is being sponsored by the Young Matrons' Circle for the benefit of the Tallulah Falls school building fund. For information concerning the fund and the invitations to the premiere call Walnut 1630.

ALL IN THE GAME

Wilson and Beckett Woodrow Wilson, who played golf every day at the Washington Country Club, declined to take lessons because, in his own words, "I have too much imagination."

Howard Beckett, veteran professional of the Capital City Club of Atlanta, was professional at the Washington Country Club for four years (1914-1918), and he knew Wilson intimately. Beckett taught the second Mrs. Wilson (Edith Galt) how to play the game.

The President was a 95 shooter and he explained to Beckett that too much imagination was to blame for lack of improvement in his game.

"Wilson played golf simply for the recreation. Even during the war years he never missed a day of golf. He played with Dr. Cary Grayson, White House physician who later became head of the Red Cross, and Ed Brown—I think that's his name—a former Atlanta man who's now dead," Beckett pointed out.

When Beckett left Washington to accept his present position at Captial City, President Wilson gave him two autographed golf balls and wished him the best of luck. "I still have one of the golf balls. I gave the other to the Red Cross," Beckett said.

The President preferred the Washington Country Club because, being across the Potomac, it afforded him more privacy. Always he was accompanied by at least four secret service men. And then, during the war years, there were eight. Four would precede him and four would follow on his daily golf rounds.

"The President was a splendid man," Beckett recalled. "He was kind and considerate. I don't think I ever met a nicer person."

He was a natty dresser on the golf course, wearing the latest style in golf regalia, and always dressed at the White House.

The Human Side Beckett recalled the human side of the President. "I'll never forget one day he went to another club in Washington. The first hole is about 225 yards. There were two players on the edge of the green as the President went to the tee. He thought he had plenty of room. So he teed off and his ball almost hit one of the players. They loudly berated him, not knowing who he was. The President put his clubs back into the car and left."

There was also the incident of Mrs. Galt and her golf. Miss Bones, a cousin of Wilson, who looked after personal matters in the White House, always accompanied Mrs. Galt to the club for her lessons, but Beckett thought the President was interested primarily in Miss Bones improving her own game.

"I didn't realize they were going to get married. One day the President asked me how my pupils were getting along. I told him that Miss Bones was doing splendidly. He grinned slyly and didn't say anything else," Beckett recalled.

ALEXANDER KNOX
(As Wilson)

A Mexican incident involving the trampling of an American flag—it sent Gen. Pershing post-haste to Mexico—interrupted one of the President's rounds of golf.

"They sent out for him and he made a rush trip back to the White House."

Wilson could hit a golf ball about 175 yards on the carry and wasn't particularly straight. When his shots would find a bunker, he had a favorite expression of distate.

It was, "Tut, tut."

In the old wooden clubs, there was a wedge on the top of the clubhead and they had a habit of working loose. When they did a golfer simply hit the club against a tee box or a tree and made the wedge firm again.

One day Wilson noticed his club was loose. He told Beckett about it and Pop hit the clubhead against a tee box, then handed it back to the President, who stood in bemused silence momentarily.

"If I'd had a lucid moment, Howard, I would have thought of that myself," he told Beckett.

A Great Picture The whole town's waiting now for the premiere of the great Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "Wilson," a product of the virile pen of Lamar Trotti and the creative genius of Darryl Zanuck.

The premiere is being sponsored by the Young Matrons' Circle in behalf of the Tallulah Falls building fund. There is no reason why the Paramount theater shouldn't be sold out. The picture has been received with great enthusiasm from coast to coast.

The three horsemen of Twentieth Century-Fox in Atlanta—Jimmy Gillespie, Spence Pierce and Leonard Allen—have done a great advance job. They have hardly taken time out to sleep in weeks.

Dana Andrews, who starred in "Swamp Water," "The Purple Heart" and recently "Wing and a Prayer," has won a wide following in Atlanta. Dana is not in "Wilson." He's just a featured Fox performer who, we predict, will reach the heights of stardom, and how! Dana makes a hit wherever he goes. He's a big handsome fellow and has what might be termed a Sinatra "Bobby Sox" following.

Having seen a preview of "Wilson," it is with a free and easy conscience that this corner heartily recommends the picture to Atlanta theatergoers. It can't miss being one of the great screen epics of our time.

Hot American League Teams Get Cool Off

Yanks Only Contender Slated for Action Before Friday

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Due to a slight case of nightmare in the schedule department, the hottest American League pennant race in years will cool its heels until Friday with only a Yanks' Wednesday night game in Philadelphia to break the monotony.

Counting on weather trouble in April and May, the chart makers provided a September calendar shot full of holes for postponed games but the torrid, dry summer failed to co-operate with washouts.

The result is that New York, St. Louis and Boston each will play 17 games and Detroit 18 in the next three weeks before the curtain drops October 1.

DETROIT TO GAIN MOST

Detroit, only a half game behind the Yanks, probably will gain the most by this enforced layoff as the Tigers have been leaning heavily on Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout with periodic relief from Rufe Gentry and Stubby Overmire. After a four-game weekend series in Cleveland, the Bengals will return to Briggs' Stadium for the rest of the campaign.

Luke Sewell's Brownies, in and out of first all season, welcome additional rest to allow their battered pitching ranks to recover. Bob Muncrief stepped back into a starting role in a well-pitched six-inning stint Friday but can use the four-day layoff. Sig Jakucki has failed to go the route in his last three outings.

New York's drive to the front may not find the mid-September "vacation" to its liking as Joe McCarthy has his pitching situation straightened out, rotating around four regular starters in Hank Borowy, Ernie Bonham, Walt Dubiel and Mel Queen. Boston stopped the Yankees' mad rush by dividing a weekend series and the Champs fear they may lose their drive before the all-important final western tour.

FINAL SERIES TO DECIDE

A pennant will be the reward for the club with the best record in the final intersectional series, opening September 19, as none of the contenders can pile up a safe lead in the intervening period. In addition to Detroit's four games with Cleveland, St. Louis plays four with Chicago, New York three with Philadelphia and Boston three at Washington. The Red Sox have finished their home schedule and the Browns will play no more on the road.

Black Peaches Play Birmingham

With the baseball season fast drawing to a close, the Atlanta Black Crackers will promote one of the best games of the year Sunday when the Birmingham All-Stars and the Macon Black Peaches clash in a double-header at Ponce de Leon park.

These two clubs were scheduled to have met in a twin bill here several weeks ago but the contests were rained out and conflicting schedules prevented a re-match until this week. The two clubs will fight it out for the right to play the Black Crackers when the local club returns from the east. The Black Crackers are to play in Yankee Stadium in a triple-header, the Newark Eagles and the New York Cubans being the other teams involved.

Here with his team for the scheduled double-header some time ago Manager James, of the Slagtown All-Stars, made some pointed remarks about beating the Black Crackers as well as the Black Peaches, and local fans are anxious to see his touted club in action.

Girls' Cage Clinic To End Tonight

The two-day girls' basketball clinic, being handled by John McCarley under the auspices of the Southeastern Association of the A. A. U., will come to a close tonight with the showing of the moving pictures of the National A. A. U. championship games as the highlight.

Tonight's program will start at 8 p. m. with a class on taping, training and first aid, to be conducted by Claude Bond, Georgia Tech trainer. Tom Slate and O. B. Keeler are scheduled for talks and a discussion of plans for the 1944-45 season will wind up the clinic.

Red Cross Net Meet Will Continue Today

All matches in the annual Red Cross tennis tournament were rained out yesterday. Weather permitting, matches slated for Monday will be played today. If rain again intervenes the same schedule will obtain and matches will be on tap for Wednesday.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

4 p. m.—Ed Fryer vs. Ken Purtz.
4:30 p. m.—Hilliard Burt vs. Frank Corrigan.
5 p. m.—Capt. Judkins vs. Vincent Connerat; Tom Bird vs. Dr. Glenn Dudley; Frank Gilreath vs. L. O. Kimberley; Tom Bell vs. Allison Adams (at Piedmont Driving Club); Wright Campbell vs. Jud Fowler; A. P. Jette vs. Wink Mason; Mack Stokes vs. Bill Carter; Bonneau Analey vs. Gordon Kiser (at Piedmont Driving Club); Bud Lindsay vs. Wallace Donnelly; Tommy Tift vs. Bob Turner; M. F. Crawford vs. Dan Hill; Tommy Lukens vs. Z. A. Rice; Charles Fowler vs. Ernest Pinholster; Harry Gault vs. Andrews Shields, and Bill Ramson vs. Arthur Howell (at Piedmont Driving Club).

BADGETT HAS 100 CANDIDATES

Decatur Must Replace Whole First Eleven

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Unlike the old lady who lived in a shoe, Bill Badgett has so many kids he knows just what to do—and has been doing it. The burly Decatur Boys' High football coach has the herculean task of replacing a whole first team this year, a mighty good first team, and he has had over 100 youngsters trying to make the grade.

Bill doesn't know just what to expect of his Bulldogs this year, but he hardly expects them to be as good as the 1943 eleven which lost only one game all season—to North Fulton, 7-6—and that game cost them the N. G. I. C. football championship.

Gone are such stalwarts as Billy Hodges, passing, punting and running star, now at Georgia; Mickey Baker, Cliff Ansley and Marion Weaver, who made up the first string backfield. Gone is the whole first string line composed of Ends Palmer Ferguson and Tully Bryant, Tackles Roger Brown and Harold Hudgins, Guards Frank Staley and Bill Young and Centers Bill Stokes and Buddy King, who alternated much of the year.

Badgett, whose 1944 eleven will open its schedule Friday night at Decatur against Claude C. Wills' Fulton High club, will have a much lighter and slower team this season, but he does have six stalwart lettermen who are looking good in the practice sessions which have been going on since Aug. 24.

In the backfield he has Sam Scarboro, who showed signs of brilliance last year; Eddie Roberts and Ben Milton to help put fangs into the Bulldogs' jaws. Quarterback Warren Harris, Halfback Jimmy Southard and Fullback Jack Tiller are newcomers showing great promise also.

Sonny Webber, a back who has been shifted to the forewall; Bob Steubin and Harry Hancock are lettermen available for line duty.

Ed Womack and Sonny Jakes have been making marked progress at the ends. Jim Queen may be part of the solution to the tackle problem. James Morgan is running well at guard and Jack Wallace has the inside track at center.

Ed Pierce and Robert Jakes, Bulldog stars of bygone years, are helping Badgett ready his Decatur eleven for what the good people of the progressive suburban town believe will be another successful season.

Chicubs Lose To Cincy, 6-5, In 10 Innings

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Ray Mueller, Cincinnati's versatile as well as durable catcher, drove in four of the Reds' first five runs with a triple and double today and then singled and scored the winning run on Eddie Miller's fly in the tenth inning as the Reds took the opener of a series from the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 5.

Clyde Shoun, who succeeded Thomas De La Cruz when the Cuban pulled an arm muscle in the seventh inning, won his 12th game.

Lawson Is Winner Over Tubize, 7-1

Helping himself to a double and two singles which drove in four runs, Sgt. Paul Crain clinched his own game Sunday as the Lawson General Hospital nine downed the Tubize Club of Rome, by a score of 7-1 on the loser's field.

Made up of some good ballplayers from the Tubize Mill and Battey General Hospital, the losing club nicked Crain for seven bingles but he kept them scattered over the nine frames and permitted the lone tally to cross the plate in the fourth inning.

Totals were: Lawson, 7 runs, 11 hits and two errors, Tubize, 1 run, 7 hits and three errors. Sgt. Woody Malone hit two for two for Lawson.

Saturday Lawson will meet the Mayport Naval Station of Florida, which boasts several ex-big leaguers at the Hospital Field, 4 p. m. The public is invited.

Prothro Vows To Beat Vols

MEMPHIS, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Nashville Vols may be the defending champs, the Southern Association's pennant and playoff kings every year since 1939, but they looked like just a lot of guys named "Joe" today to Memphis Manager Doc Prothro.

The chunky Chick pilot took a long-range gander at the Nashville-Memphis pennant playoff series, opening here Wednesday night, and confidently predicted:

"Heck yeah, we're going to beat 'em. Why not? I think we have the best team."

Prothro announced he would lead with his heaviest pitching artillery in an effort to pile up a two-game lead before moving into Nashville's match-box Sulphur Dell Friday.

"It'll be either Frank Veverka or Ellis Kinder," the rotund dentist said of his opening pitching choice. "I haven't fully made up my mind yet."

Veverka, the veteran southpaw iron man, has won 16 games, performing almost exclusively at home. Kinder is a 19-game winning right-hander.

At Nashville, Gilbert, whose Vols slid under the wire for the last-half flag on the final day of the season, announced he would send Dale Alderson, a right-hander, to the mound in Wednesday night's opener. Alderson has beaten the Chicks twice this year. Gilbert said Boyd Tepler, sensational southpaw, would pitch Thursday's game.

Prothro said Ralph McNair, regular Memphis catcher, likely would not be able to play. Les McGarity will carry the receiving load in the series.

The Nashville team has voted against giving Memphis permission to use Buddy Lewis, Knoxville catcher-manager, for emergency duties.

JIMMY MOORE'S HAVE NEW SON

Jimmy Moore, well known in Atlanta sports' circles, didn't have much time for passing out the cigars last weekend after he became the father of a 12-pound son, born at Emory hospital at noon Friday.

Jimmy was somewhere in the vicinity of Montgomery, Ala., en route from the NATTC school in Norman, Okla., to Jacksonville, Fla., where the Navy had transferred him. He was able to secure a five-day leave quickly and was able to spend only a couple of days at home.

Mrs. Moore, the former Elise Waller, and son are at home now and doing well. The new un-named newcomer is the third child of the Moores, the other two being girls. Jimmy was the honor graduate of his class at the NATTC school recently.

Emergency Fund Set Up by GIAA

MACON, Ga., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Appropriation of 5 per cent of the gross receipts of the annual conference championship football game and the annual basketball tournament to set up an emergency fund has been voted by the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association.

The action was taken at the GIAA's fall meeting here yesterday. Alex Truitt, of Columbus High school, was elected to the conference executive committee, replacing E. M. Boyce, also of Columbus.

Rome High school, Darlington School for Boys, also at Rome; Commercial High and Marist, Atlanta; Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, and Savannah were not represented at the meeting.

Exposition Juniors Win Softball Crown

The Exposition Juniors, led by Vickery, defeated the Red Caps from Techwood in an extra-inning game at the Atlanta Boys' Club last week. Exposition won the second half, and the Red Caps won the first. Last week's win by the Exposition team makes them the city softball champions for boys 14 years old and under.

The touch football league to be sponsored by the Atlanta Boys' Club will start play next Monday. The football team organized by the club for the first time this year is anxious to arrange games with any high school "B" teams or small high school varsity teams within the vicinity of Atlanta. The team is composed of boys 17 years and under without previous varsity football experience.

Ellsworth Vines Cops Golf Meet in Playoff

GRAND JUNCTION, Col., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, former tennis champion who now is pro at the Denver Country Club, took a sudden death playoff from John Geertsen and Jerry Henderson, Salt Lake City pros, to annex the championship of the sixth annual Rocky Mountain Open Golf tournament.

DAUGHTER IS BORN TO McGAUGHEYS

It's a daughter for Mr. and Mrs. Cliff McGaughey.

The young lady was born last week and has been named Albertine.

Her father is the popular sporting goods dealer and former University of Georgia and Atlanta Cracker baseball star. The McGaugheys have one other child, a son, four years old.

What has Cake Baking to do with Synthetic Tires?

Six women, starting with the same ingredients, will bake cakes of widely varying quality. Why? Because it takes more than just the ingredients for a really good cake . . . you've got to have THAT SPECIAL "KNACK"

General has a special "knack," too...in compounding synthetic rubber for Prewar Mileage

More important to you today, than ever, is General's famous "knack" for getting more mileage out of rubber. Because, in synthetic tires, this same "knack" now gives you a General that has proved it is as far ahead in mileage as Generals always have been.

From start to finish, General uses its own special formula to build a tire that is a Top-Quality General, in every way. A tire with the kind of extra mileage for which Generals have always been famous.

There is actually far more difference in tires now than before. Come in—let us show you why.

WHEN YOU BUY... BE SURE OF LONG MILEAGE

LET US SHOW YOU THE RECORDS OF LOCAL GENERAL SYNTHETIC USERS

You must have your present tires recapped, if possible . . . but, when you get a precious new-tire certificate, use it for the tire that has proved that it gives you Top-Quality as only General knows how to build it.

STOCK SALES

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Stocks, bonds and commodities rallied in today's markets as mild investment demand, coupled with short covering, served as the principal stimulant.

The share list edged forward after a fairly steady start and, while dealings again were among the slowest of the year to date, gains ranged from fractions to more than 2 points for both peacerated and armament issues. Extreme advances were reduced in many cases at the close.

The Bond market held a relatively steady undertone today with substantial aid from rails and investment type industrials and uitilities.

Todd Shipyards, in the curb, jumped 3 on a few sales. Lesser advancers were Brewster Aero, American Gas, Hummel Ross Fibre and St. Regis Paper. Turnover here was 148,430 shares versus 177,505 in the previous 5-hour stretch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Cotton futures rallied almost $1 a bale today on small mill and outside buying, which met a scarcity of offerings. Distant months led the advance as trading was influenced by the lack of edging pressure and strength in outside markets.

Corn Crop Estimated At 3,101,319,000 Bus.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department today estimated this year's corn crop at 3,101,319,000 bushels, and wheat production at 1,115,402,000 bushels, a record crop.

Corn production was forecast a month ago at 2,929,117,000 bushels. Production last year was 3,076,159,000 bushels, and the 1933-42 average ten-year production was 2,369,384,000 bushels.

Wheat production was forecast a month ago at 1,132,105,000 bushels. The crop last year totaled 836,298,000 bushels, and the ten-year average production was 760,199,000 bushels.

A "ONCE-IN-WARTIME" REAL ESTATE OPPORTUNITY
BIDS ARE INVITED for voting trust certificates which represent the entire equity in 45-story finest hotel, store and office building in Columbus, Ohio.
In view of the probability of further inflation and tax advantages, the equity in the 45-story American Insurance Union Building, fully occupied by tenants, and its adjoining land, leased for 99 years to the Keith Theater interests, provides an outstanding medium for investment. This property is in the center of business activities of Columbus, Ohio.

Steel and concrete, faced with terra-cotta, lifts this towered building one-half foot higher than the Washington Monument. Building was completed in 1927 at a cost in excess of $7,800,000, exclusive of land. Corridor floors and walls are marble. The Deshler-Wallick Hotel, Columbus' largest and finest, occupies the first 18 floors, being approximately 65% of the floor space. Office room in the upper floors and tower is "unlimited". Power, developed by high pressure boilers newly installed in 1937, stoker fired with coal, and generators supply all electrical and heating requirements. The building is erected upon a tract 187½ ft. square, owned in fee simple by Fifty West Broad, Inc., with streets on all four sides.
Voting trust certificates based upon all shares of common capital stock, issued by Fifty West Broad, Inc., preceded by approximately $2,100,000.00 of 4½-5% bonds (1952) represent the equity in these properties. The undersigned Co-Receivers hold certificates representing one-half of the outstanding stock (32656 shares), said voting trust having been created by order of the Court of Appeals of Franklin County, Ohio. The other one-half of said certificates representing 32656 shares of the outstanding capital stock is held by Frank B. Mauller, and James W. Huffman, Esquire, as trustees of a second voting trust for the beneficial owners thereof. Said last mentioned one-half of said capital stock can be sold by said voting trustees if a bid therefor is approved in the manner provided in said voting trust agreement. Attention is directed to Section 121 of the Revenue Act of 1943 for the tax advantages which may be available to the owner of this equity. Said bond issue is in good standing and all real estate taxes, presently due, have been paid.
SEALED BIDS INVITED
Separate sealed bids may be submitted for either the property described in paragraph (1) or paragraph (2) below.
(1) Said voting trust certificates owned by the undersigned Co-Receivers, based upon one-half of all the outstanding shares of common capital stock issued by Fifty West Broad, Inc.
(2) Voting trust certificates described in paragraph (1) above, and for the other one-half of said outstanding common capital stock issued by Fifty West Broad, Inc. not owned by the undersigned Co-Receivers, on condition that no bid for said voting trust certificates held by the Co-Receivers is to be accepted until the bid for said capital stock held by said Mauller and Huffman as trustees is first duly approved, and accepted. If bid for said capital stock is approved, then said Court of Appeals will approve a bid in the same amount from the same bidder for the voting trust certificates owned by the undersigned Co-Receivers.
All bids should be submitted (accompanied by certified check for 5% of bid) on or before October 17, 1944, to the undersigned who will present all of said bids offering to purchase said capital stock as well as said voting trust certificates, to the voting trustees (Frank B. Mauller, and James W. Huffman, Esquire) for proper action and all of said bids offering to purchase all of said voting trust certificates to said court for acceptance or rejection. The balance of the bid price is payable in cash, if and when approved by court. No commission will be paid.
The successful bidder must agree before his bid will be confirmed by the court that, before he distributes said voting trust certificates and/or common stock to the public generally, he will at his own expense effectively and duly register or otherwise qualify said securities (both voting trust certificates and common stock), for resale or distribution, under the Federal Securities Law of 1933 as amended, or any other applicable State or Federal law, and he must further agree to save said Co-Receivers, Fifty West Broad, Inc., its officers and directors, and said two groups of voting trustees harmless from any liability, financial or otherwise, arising in any way from any of his acts, omissions or neglect.

Severe Storm May Hit U. S.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Poised 650 miles off the Atlantic coast due east of Miami, a severe Atlantic hurricane was apparently hesitating between a course which would either endanger the United States coast or keep it out to sea.

The dangerous storm has remained nearly stationary during the past six to 12 hours, the weather bureau said in a 10:15 p. m. advisory.

It is attended by winds of full hurricane force near the center, with gales extending outward at least 150 miles.

"Continued slight movement is indicated next six to 12 hours.

"Caution should be continued against high seas and increasing winds in the outer Bahamas and extreme caution is advised all shipping over the Atlantic northward to 35 degrees during the next 48 hours."

INVITATION BY M. P. CALLAWAY, AS TRUSTEE OF THE PROPERTY OF CENTRAL OF GEORGIA RAILWAY COMPANY, FOR BIDS ON $655,120.00 OF NOTES SECURED BY A CONDITIONAL SALE OR LEASE CONTRACT COVERING THE PURCHASE OF 200 50-TON 40' 6" AND 250 50-TON 50' 6" ALL STEEL BOX CARS.

Savannah, Georgia,
September 1, 1944.

The undersigned, as Trustee of the Property of Central of Georgia Railway Company, has entered into a contract with the American Car & Foundry Company, hereinafter called the "Manufacturer," dated June 3, 1944, for the construction of 200 50-ton 40' 6" and 250 50-ton 50' 6" all steel box cars at a cost of $1,637,800.

The undersigned will pay in cash 60% of the cost of each box car, as and when the same is accepted by the undersigned, and will pay the balance of the purchase price of said cars amounting to $655,120.00 in 4 equal semi-annual installments, each for the sum of $163,780.00; the first of said semi-annual installments being due six months from the acceptance of the last of said cars, covered by said contract; deferred installments of purchase price to draw interest from date of acceptance of the last car covered by said contract at the rate of two per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually.

The said deferred semi-annual installments will be represented by four promissory notes bearing the date of the acceptance of the last of said cars, and payable at semi-annual intervals, with interest from date to maturity, payable semi-annually, at the rate of 2% per annum. After maturity said notes shall bear interest at the rate of 6% per annum.

Said deferred payments of purchase price, together with interest thereon as hereinbefore stated, are secured by the said conditional sale or lease contract entered into between the undersigned and said Manufacturer.

The Manufacturer will assign said contract and notes to a purchaser, to be obtained by the Trustee, the assignment to be without recourse on said Manufacturer, provided, however, that no such assignment shall subject any assignee to or relieve said Manufacturer or the successors to its property or business, from the warranties contained in the contract and specifications for the manufacture of said equipment. If the notes and contract should be sold at a discount the undersigned will make good to the Manufacturer the difference, and if the contract and notes are sold at a premium, the premium will belong to the undersigned.

There is a covenant in said conditional sale or lease contract to the effect that, upon the termination of the Trusteeship of Central of Georgia Railway Company, the reorganized corporation or any corporation which succeeds to seventy-five (75%) per cent. or more of the owned lines of the Railway Company at the termination of the Trusteeship, may be substituted for and in the place of the Trustee and, upon such corporation agreeing to be so substituted and assuming all of the obligations and covenants of the Trustee under said conditional sale or lease contract, the Trustee shall stand discharged therefrom.

Delivery of part of this equipment is expected during the latter part of October and will be completed during November, 1944.

Bids are invited for said issue of $655,120.00 of notes and the conditional sale or lease contract securing them as hereinbefore set forth, which bids will be received up to 12:00 o'clock noon September 20, 1944, at the office of the undersigned, 233 West Broad Street, Savannah, Georgia.

Bids will be accepted only on all of said notes as a whole.

Bids are to be submitted in conformity with the Clayton Anti-Trust Act and regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission made pursuant to said Act.

Bids shall be addressed to the Trustee and enclosed in a plain envelope, securely sealed, bearing no indication of the name of the bidder or the amount of the bid, and shall be marked on the outside of the envelope "Bid under Proposed Contract No. 4."

No bid shall be received unless it shall state the name and address of the bidder and, if the bidder be a corporation, the names and addresses of the officers, directors and general manager thereof and of the purchasing or selling officer or agent and, if the bidder is a firm, partnership or association, the bid shall give the names and addresses of each member thereof, and of the manager, purchasing or selling officer or agent.

Bids will be opened immediately after noon September 20th, 1944, by said Trustee or J. D. McCartney, Assistant to the Trustee.

Trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

The acceptance of any bid is subject to the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of the issue of said notes and the sale of the said contract and notes.

The United States District Court has authorized the contract subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission as above stated.

In the event all of said equipment is not delivered to the undersigned in accordance with the contract hereinbefore mentioned the bid of the successful bidder will be reduced proportionately to cover the equipment delivered.

The cost of this equipment is the maximum estimated cost, which is subject to small adjustments, and if it becomes unnecessary to issue all of said notes, the bid of the successful bidder will be reduced proportionately to cover the actual amount of notes issued and secured by said conditional sale or lease contract.

Copies of the form of the proposed conditional sale or lease contract and the notes issued thereunder and secured thereby, and any other information in respect thereto, will be furnished to any person desiring to bid, on application to the office of the Trustee in Savannah, Georgia.

M. P. CALLAWAY,
As Trustee of the Property of
Central of Georgia Railway Company,
Savannah, Georgia.

6-Engine Plane Built by French Underground

PARIS, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Underground industry, flourishing in France during the German occupation, produced a new six-engine seaplane which is potential competition for the American Glenn Martin Mars, the air ministry disclosed today.

In secret laboratories in the Alps foothills and in forest-shrouded workshops in southern France technicians under the noses of the Nazis designed a new model called "Late 631" and by Liberation Day had the principal parts all ready for assembly.

A lot of work was done in factories supposedly under German control. Within four days of liberation a Goeland transport plane from one of these "invisible" workshops flew a mission for the Allies.

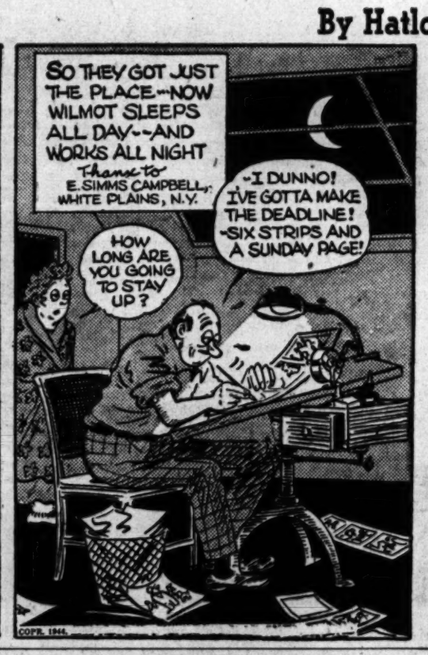

Stewards To Meet

PROFESSOR SKUNKS ARE DEODORIZED

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP) Sachet and Cologne, two deodorized baby skunks, have been added to the "faculty" of the American Museum of Natural History.

They will participate in an "Animals of North America" visual education program held by the museum for public school children.

AUNT HET

"Maybe it's a great book like they say, but I don't believe it would sell if the author had left out the parts that couldn't o' been sent through the mail when I was a girl."
